Notorious Gossip

Some may long for the soothing touch
Of lavender, cream or mauve;
But the ties I wear must possess
the glare
Of a red-hot kitchen stove.
The books I read and the life I lead.
Are sensible, sane and mild,
I like calm hats and I don't wear spats—
But I want my neckties wild!
Oh, some will say a gent's cravat
Should only be seen, not heard;
But I want a tie that will make men cry
And render the vision blurred.
I yearn, I long for a tie so strong
It will take two men to tie it;
If such there be, just show it to me—
Whatever the price, I'll buy it!

Sister (who had seen the game):

LONDON FASHIONS

GOWNS FOR BRIDES AND BRIDESMAIDS

Designs for wedding gowns are usually based on the most becoming fashions of the season with an additional note of romance. This season there is a large choice of styles with a variety of necklines, sleeves, and arrangements of trains. The most successful are those which keep to a clear line and are not overloaded with draperies, allowing the figure to be seen under the full veil, which flows into the train. The best line for the train is in gowns where a panel has been put in from about the knee line at the back so that there is no drag on the front of the skirt.

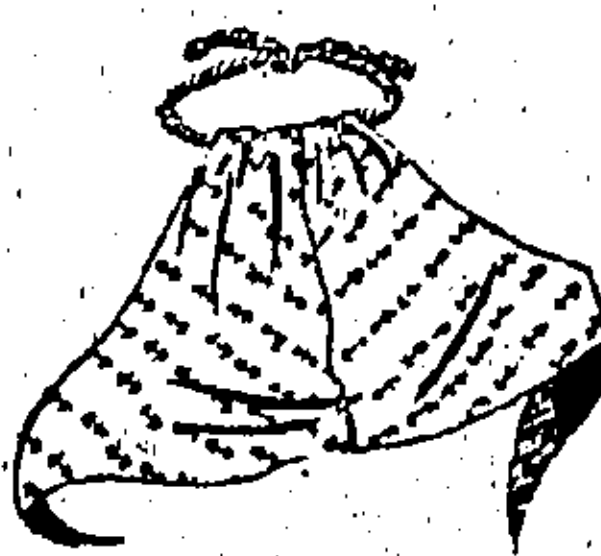

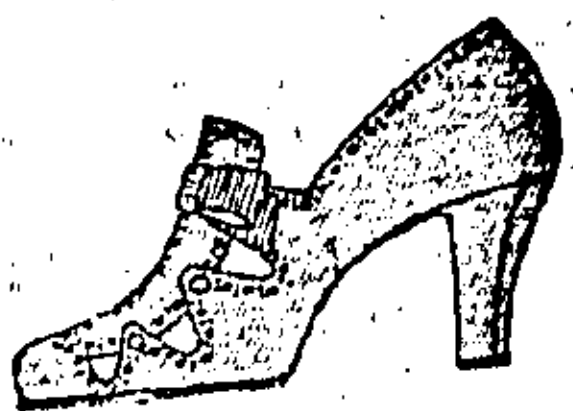

THE WEDDINGS

Many weddings have been seen with bride and retinue in white, the only note of colour being the bridesmaids' bouquets; but colour groupings of bridesmaids are likely. Materials for wedding gowns vary from one of the many satins, slipper satin, satin armure, duchesse satin, soft shiny satin, and a new type of dull crepe satin, to tulle or satin foundation. A beautiful wedding gown was in an ivory white satin embroidered with showers of tiny silver sequins; the line was very simple and interest was added by panels cut on the cross giving effects of light and shade. The bodice was also made in sections cut on the cross and the sleeves were long and close fitting. The train came from a lowest panel and not from the waist. Another beautiful gown had a somewhat similar line in ivory lace, the pattern outlined in silver thread and worn over a foundation of silver lamé. A wedding gown in gold and white crepe lamé had the gold design in diagonal broken streaks; as the material was ornate the gown was very simply cut and the train came an arched panel set in below the waist.

PALE TONE

Several brides have chosen a pale tone of camellia pink for their wedding gowns and have had their bridesmaids in the same colour; one gown was in palest pink marquisette made in the fuller style and mounted on satin in the same shade with the dull side out so that only the very pale tone came through. Quilted camellias in the satin were embroidered on the dress, and the sleeves came to the elbow, ending in long handkerchief points. The train was of layers of the marquisette cut on the cross. Pale pink and gold lamé was used for another wedding gown, with the bridesmaids dressed in the same material. Ivory and silver lamé was used for close-fitting gown, the train of which came from the waist and was part of the skirt.

A good many recent brides have had their veils edged with silver or gold, and one has chosen a tiny silver sequin edging. Head-dresses vary from a Marie Stuart cap, which was made in seed pearls for wearing with a gown in ivory satin embroidered with pearls, to an arrangement of plaited rouleaux of the material when the gown was of satin. Orange blossom wreaths and diadems arranged in very light designs are usual, but there are many unconventional head-dresses, a halo of the transparent cellophane that looks like glass being one of them.

SUMMER

LIVING UP TO WHITE ENSEMBLE

SUMMER BEAUTY PROBLEM SOLVED

Summer complexion problems are assuming a new phase with the advent of an all-white vogue for sunshine days. Already many well-dressed women are choosing white as one of the smart accessories to a summer ensemble—white cravats and white ruffles of organdie, white hats and tailored three-quarter length coats. Wide stiff white revers and gauntlets cuffs adorn many of the spring tailors in grey or blue summer woollens.

Lovely frocks in white organdie and other summery fabrics are being designed by the fashion creators, destined to be worn with wide-brimmed picture hats. And women are discovering, how chic, though expensive, this fashion for white can be. Becoming, too, when sunshine—and a little artifice—has bestowed an attractive sun tan on the complexion.

Discretion is one of the secrets of making up successfully to this fashion for white. "Complexion tints must not be vivid," and "white is most becoming to a softly tanned skin, lighter in tone for a blonde, and slightly darker for brunettes."

There is a new sun tan powder base, a soft complexion cream that is useful in hastening the sun tan "look," which experts agree is not so much a matter of choosing the correct sun shade of powder as the correct cream powder base. There is also a sun tan bronze for darker types of beauty. Complexion powders are chosen to tone with the sun tan cream, made in subtle tints especially designed for blonde, brunette and mid-between complexions.

WATERPROOF CREAMS

The creams are protective, and incidentally waterproof, and are therefore useful for sea or swimming-pool bathing, as well as for hastening town tan.

With these creams and accompanying powders, rouge and lipstick in delicate tints to tone, beauty experts have achieved a natural looking beauty. Except for the fact that the skin texture may look softer and more cared for, it is often difficult to distinguish it from real holiday tan, due to lots of sunshine and the open air, when white wear is almost universally becoming. Usually the result is far more attractive. Specialised beauty care, with massage and suitable creams and lotions, and other beauty requisites, tones up the complexion to a healthful beauty, which is enhanced by clever beauty aids. The method is simple, and includes the use of a sun tan cream powder base, which is really also a protective cream, the carefully chosen complexion powder, and rouge and lipstick in nature tints. A soft tinge of rose can be introduced in the powder to combat any tendency to sallowness.

With this type of make-up colour is used with restrained touches, the rouge delicately applied before powdering, the lips pencilled in with an artist's touch, following the natural curves. Eyes can be enhanced by darkening the lashes. Here again the beauty expert helps with a clever cream mascara that also increases the length and gives a fascinating upward curl to the eyelashes.

A LADY'S CAMERA

WORLD'S SMALLEST

Universally known as the World's Smallest Movie Camera, the new FILMO STRAIGHT EIGHT is being introduced to Hong Kong by Mr. Chas. S. Rosselet, Agent for the Bell & Howell Company of Chicago, manufacturers for the past 28 years of the movie equipment used in producing most of the world's professional photographs.

This new personal camera, which is distinguished by its Quality, Versatility and ease of use, takes 30-foot spools of 8 mm. fine-grain penchromatic movie film costing only $3.95, and this includes processing and postpaid return, ready to project. This film is long enough for about fifteen movie scenes thereby bringing new economy and simplicity to the making of quality personal movies. It costs less to operate than a small snapshot camera, yet it produces vivid, true-to-life, motion pictures.

The size of the camera is only 1-3/8 by 3 by 5 inches, it is so small and so light (only 1 1/2 pounds), that you'll never be conscious of having it with you until you want to use it. Having no sprockets to thread, it is so easy to load and to use that even the least mechanically-minded quickly become proficient. And yet it is so expertly designed and so sturdily constructed by Bell & Howell engineers and craftsmen that, on home-sized screens, you could never distinguish its movies from those made with a fine 16 mm. camera.

CREATES A NEW PRINCESS CURL

STYLE THAT IS DELIGHTING THE EXPERTS

London, June 5.

At the age of five Princess Margaret Rose has become the country's juvenile fashion leader.

Her new style of hairdressing, when she visited the International Horse Show at Olympia yesterday with the Duke and Duchess of York and her sister, Princess Elizabeth was a surprise for the West End experts.

It was not only original, it was (in their own words) "artistic and practical for summer wear," and hairdressers are expecting mothers to have their children similarly curled.

Princess Margaret had her hair perfectly straight from the parting to her ears, where two large Pompadour curls hung in a half-circle from her face to the cluster of curls at her neck.

A West End hairdresser to whom I showed a photograph greatly admired the new style.

"It is a good idea," he said. "Not only does it look most becoming for a child; it has the advantage of taking the bulk of the hair spread from the head during the hot weather."

SKIRTS ARE FULLER

Skirts for summer garden party and evening frocks are very full and ground length.

With Ascot only a month ahead, dressmakers are showing beautiful frocks for the race meeting, side by side with dresses for the dances which take place every night and make heavy demands on a debutante's wardrobe.

Black and white is, as always, very popular. Very smart examples of black and white frocks are included in the collection of summer models Bradley's, Ltd., are showing in their salons in Chepstow place.

Black and white cloque makes the mode sketched. The black puff sleeves, which fall below those of the coat, are attached to the white tunic, which is finished with a black collar.

Navy blue is used for evening dresses, many of which have wide wing-like additions to give a high-shouldered effect.

An evening dress of navy blue grenaza (a silky material not unlike organdie) has bands of white and shaded yellow at the hem and similar bands carried high over the shoulders.

"It is most difficult to be original in hairdressing styles for children, but this one, has done it," he added.

NOVELTIES*THE MID-SEASON
FASHION PARADESEveryone is asking me if feather boas will be worn this summer.We shall see many frivolous feather fantasies exploited by the ultra-fashionable few, but these cannot be considered seriously in making up a practical wardrobe for the average woman.To-day it is real wisdom to concentrate on the necessary foundation for a good wardrobe, complete with attractive and helpful accessories. Extras may be picked up later in summer sales, but unnecessary, unthought-out colours often do more to mar than enhance the wardrobe.Amusing and attractive are the lace gloves with balloon-like, stiffened cuffs. In two colours this will be a most welcome whim of fashion. For example, gloves of black and pink lace have for the cuffs a layer of pink chiffon beneath.The lightest of tiny fantastic hats is treated in the same way, with a massed coronal of flowers and feather tips, all stressing a black and pink scheme. Another in cream and apple-green, or pale blue and yellow, strikes the youthful note, and transparency so pleasant on a hot June day.There is some exquisite millinery this year for afternoon receptions. The glass-brimmed hat is being superseded by flowers and feathers treated with much artistry.Scarves in shaded chiffon are very feminine for evening wear, thrown about the shoulders in a nonchalant way.True to the ever-revolving wheel of fashion—the coloured scarf of diaphanous texture was sure to come back.A deep wine shaded chiffon dinner gown is enhanced in charm by a scarf of shrimp colour chiffon, and a pale-grey by a vivid green. Some coloured scarves will be bordered with ostrich fringes, again admirably shaded.Goffered chiffon, lined with feather, is a very lovely idea for a youthful operacape. Rainbow colours carried out this novel idea —over a silvery gauze frock.This is a well-dressed season for of an important change in new type, showing semi-fitted vestee tailored with plain organza, rick-rack ed designs over surface of primrose and daffodil yellow

COLOURS*LONDON FASHIONSNew influences are discernible in the frocks for the Royal garden receptions and Ascot. A vast amount of hand work is shown and also a good deal of pleating.
The tunic influence is strong, particularly in evening clothes.A number of Ascot gowns have accessory coats, and the same is true of a great number of evening frocks, some of the little coats of the younger gowns having a Victorian look. Over plain white organza a short coat in black and white broderie anglaise is worn and made fitting in to the waist.
A short blue taffeta coat like a Victorian pelisse was shown with a white broderie anglaise gown mounted on royal blue taffeta.
Many printed silks are being used;
and a frock of white georgette printed in field flowers, poppies, calsies, and mauve cornflowers has its coat in crepe de Chine in the same design and made with a flaring basque.UNUSUAL COLOUR EFFECTSSome unusual colour effects are seen in the more elaborate race frocks: black marquisette is used to veil a printed silk whose colours are defined in bands of ribbon on the overskirt; pale primrose yellow marquisette veils a lavender crepe de Chine, and grey chiffon printed in cabbage roses is mounted on pale pink chiffon, which in turn is mounted on crepe de Chine.
Thistledown layers of filmy material deftly used add interest to the new gowns. Elaborate appliques of cut-out flowers appear on all the floral printed frocks. The amount of handwork in the making of the frocks is greater than has been known since the years before the War. Printed cloqueROUND THE

DEVALUATION OF THE FRANC

London, June 17.
Recalling that the French Government had stated it was not their policy to devalue the Franc and refusing therefore to reply to the House of Commons' question on that hypothesis the Chancellor of the Exchequer took the opportunity to deal with what he described as the "Misapprehension" current in some quarters. Mr. Chamberlain said "our monetary policy has never been governed by any desire to obtain competitive trade advantages. The exchange equalisation account plays the part only of smoothing out unnecessary fluctuations."

A MINIATURE FLOOD

Follows Bursting Of Water Main
London, June 17.
Remarkable scenes followed a water main burst in the centre of London to-day. Neighbouring streets were soon several feet deep with swirling tide which swept into shops, flooded cellars and brought traffic to a standstill. The tramway tunnel from Kingsway to Embankment was flooded and the dislocation of tramway service resulted over a considerable area.

AIR DEFENCE'S REFORM

DETAIL OF PLAN

London, June 17.
The Air Ministry announces that the Air Council has decided to carry out important changes in the system of command and administration in the Home Commands of the Royal Air Force in order to provide appropriate organisation for an enlarged force which will function with speed and efficiency in peace or in war.
The new organisation provides four Commands as follows: 1st Bomber Command, controlling Bomber Squadrons; 2nd Fighter Command, controlling Fighter Squadrons, Army Co-operation Squadrons and Observer Corps; 3rd Coastal Command, controlling flyingboat and general reconnaissance squadrons and Administration and shore training of Squadrons of the Fleet Air Arm; and 4th Training Command which will, with a few exceptions, control all training units at Home.
The air defence of the country will be vested in three Operational Commands, close co-ordination between which will be directly exercised by the Air Ministry.

First appointments to these Commands are: to Bomber Command, Air Marshal Sir John M. Steel; to Fighter Command, Air Marshal Sir Hugh C. T. Dowding; to Coastal Command, Air Marshal Sir Arthur M. Longmore; and to Training Command, Air Marshal Sir Charles S. Burnett.

Changes affecting administration of a far-reaching nature—the main objects of which are to provide for decentralisation of administrative duties, for exercise of fuller powers of responsibility by various commanders, and for reduction to the minimum of links in the chain of command in order to avoid delays and duplicated effort—are also introduced. The new organisation will be brought into force for Bomber, Fighter and Training Commands in July. The change in Coastal Command will follow shortly afterwards.
British Wireless.

CLOSE CO-ORDINATION

London, June 17.
Reorganisation of the Home Commands of the Royal Air Force, so as to make the peace organisation conform as closely as possible with the organisation visualised for war, has been announced by the Air Council.
The new plan, which is consequent upon the expansion of the Royal Air Force, will comprise three operational commands: namely, the bomber, fighter and coastal commands. There will be one training command.
The Air Defence of Great Britain Command will disappear and Coastal Defence will be reorganised.

The air defence of the country will then be vested in three operational commands.
Close co-ordination will be exercised between the commands and the Air Ministry both in time of peace and war.

MALTA AS A BASE TO STAY

NO INTENTION OF GIVING UP

London, June 17.
Invited at Commons question time to make a statement regarding the future of the British Naval Base at Malta, the First Lord of Admiralty, Sir Samuel Hoare said "I am glad for the opportunity of contradicting rumours which have received some publicity that Malta is to be abandoned as a Naval Base. The Board of Admiralty have no intention of discontinuing the use of Malta as the principal Naval Base in Mediterranean and headquarters of the Mediterranean Fleet."

To a supplementary question as to the security of Base Sir Samuel Hoare replied "I would never say I was fully satisfied with any defence position but I would state categorically that as we have no intention whatever of evacuating Malta we shall certainly take every practicable means to make its defences secure against any possible attack."

South African Protectorates

London, June 17.

The position of South African Protectorates was the subject of a parliamentary reply to-day by the Under Secretary for Dominions. Lord Hailington recalled the Aide Memoire published after the conversations between the Dominions Secretary and the Prime Minister of Union last year which stated the policy of both the United Kingdom and the Union Governments for the next few years should be directed to bringing about the situation in which "the transfer were to become a matter of practical politics it could be effected with the full acquiescence of the populations concerned. He added "this still represents the policy of the Government here and I have nothing to add to that statement."

FORGOTTEN FACES

AT THE QUEEN'S

Herbert Marshall is the star of Paramount's "Forgotten Faces" which opened at the Queen's Theatre yesterday.

In the supporting cast are Gertrude Michael, James Burke, Robert Cummings and Jane Rhodes. The film is a story of an all-consuming love.

The story revolves around a gambling house operator, and the woman he marries. When he finds she is faithless he commits a murder and is sent to prison. Through a friendly police sergeant, his daughter is given to a well-to-do family for adoption, and never knows who her real parents are.

Years later, the prisoner learns that his daughter now grown, is to be married and that his wife intends to blackmail her. Securing a parole through the efforts of the policeman, he arranges to change places with the butler in his daughter's home. Development of the scheme whereby he frustrates his wife's efforts brings the film to a breath-taking climax.

In this picture Herbert Marshall gave another, inimitable performance, and his acting, especially towards close will long be remembered by those who have witnessed the picture.

The supporting shorts which included a Paramount Newsreel and a novelty short are delightful and very appropriate.

AT THE KING'S

"FIGHTING STOCK"

Another merry farce "Fighting Stock" is showing to-day at the King's Theatre. It is a Ben Travers' tale of misadventure in quite his best vein, with the customary trio disentangling the complications.

Ben Travers has provided the necessary ingredients for a wholehearted farce, and under Tom Walls' astute and experienced direction no single point of mirth-making, no single "spot of bother" has been overlooked. The result is that "Fighting Stock" is a film crammed full of laughable incident and sustained merriment. Whatever the family motto of the fighting Rowleys, the flesh is weak even if the spirit would live up to it. The Brigadier sustains his courage with many draughts of fruity port, but the courage of Sydney oozes at all points. As a love-maker, Sydney is audacious. The Secretary's well-meaning efforts are fruitless. He means well, very well, but there is more important business afoot, than the consideration of problems concerning the Rowley estate.

"Fighting Stock" will go down as one of the best "farces" to come off an English studio.

they all brought large sums. They belonged to a French collector who sent them to London for sale.

A little gold coin bearing the head of Constantine sold for £27. The coins covered the whole period of Roman dominion, and

THE IRISH IN US

Warner Bros. "The Irish In Us" with James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and Frank McHugh in the leading roles, opens at the Star Theatre to-day.

It is said to be one of the most entertaining pictures of the season, combining riotous comedy with tense drama, pathos and a most unusual triangular romance involving the love of two brothers for the same girl.

The cast as well as the director and most of the crew are Irish, including that inimitable trio, Cagney, O'Brien and McHugh as the three sons of Mary Gordon, herself born in Ireland.

Once a happy family, a rift sets in when Cagney and O'Brien fall in love with the same girl, Olivia de Havilland.

The film presents what is said to be the longest and most fiercely fought ring bout in history. Although it takes but fifteen minutes on the screen it was five days in the making. Cagney and Harvey Parry, a former boxing champion are the contestants.

J. Farrell MacDonald and Thomas Jackson also have important roles. The picture was directed by Lloyd Bacon, an Irishman, despite his English name. The screen play is by Earl Baldwin, based on the story by Frank O'Sattli.

FAST TORPEDO CRAFT

SPEED TRIALS OF NEW MOTOR-BOAT

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

Renewed interest is being shown by various Powers in the construction of what were known in the War as coastal motorboats, but are now generally referred to as motor torpedo-boats. An order for six of these craft was placed by the British Admiralty last autumn—the first since 1922—and a further six are to be built under the recent supplementary Navy Estimate. Special attention is therefore being directed to the performance of the latest boat of this class, which J. I. Thornycroft and Co. Limited, have just completed for a foreign country.

This firm supplied the Lightning (officially torpedo-boat No. 1) to the Royal Navy, 60 years ago, and have been closely connected with the development of such craft ever since. The old steam-driven torpedo-boats, as is well known, became larger and larger, and developed into the modern destroyer, with a range of 6,000 miles without refuelling—a miniature cruiser. With steam machinery the armament-carrying capacity of the small torpedo-boats and their radius of action were very limited, but by the employment of modern internal combustion engines not only are these factors very much increased, but a much greater speed can be obtained.

The boat which has just completed her trials is able to carry two torpedoes, depth charges, and machine-guns. With a full load of fuel the following results were obtained in official trials over the Admiralty measured mile:—

Best run, 48 knots.
Best pair of runs, 46.84 knots.
True and mean speed of six runs, 46.094 knots.

TEST IN BAD WEATHER

In the small steam torpedo-boat, apart from the sea-keeping qualities of the hull, the speed was limited by the possibility of stoking the boilers and looking after the machinery when the boat was being tossed about. With the motor torpedo-boat these difficulties are obviated, and this was amply demonstrated in a run made from Westminster to Portsmouth on

CHINESE ARTIST ENTERTAINED

AT CHINA EMPORIUM

Mr. Ma Man Li, the celebrated Chinese artist, who is well-known in all the southern districts of the Yangtze Basin, was entertained at a tea party reception at the China Emporium Tea Rooms, yesterday afternoon by a number of local Chinese artists.

Mr. Ma Man Li, who recently arrived here from Kwangsi, will soon proceed to Europe to continue his mission of making known Chinese art and letters to the world.

It is understood that Mr. Ma Man Li's splendid exhibition, which comprises an extraordinary collection of his own masterpieces, calligraphy, manuscripts and poems, was officially opened to the public last Wednesday the 17th instant on the 6th floor of the China Building, with a simple but impressive ceremony in the presence of many artists, guests and friends, and attracted a large number of visitors during the two days since it was opened.

Most of Mr. Ma Man Li's works are meant for depicting the beautiful scenery and landscapes of the famous places in China, as would rouse up the interests of those who see them.

The exhibition will extend to next Wednesday, the 24th instant from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. All are welcome, and there is no charge for admittance.

DUKE OF YORK AS FREEMASON

AFFILIATED TO LODGE GLAMIS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

The Duke of York yesterday afternoon became an affiliated member of Glamis Masonic Lodge, No. 99, being introduced by Brother James Beattie, a village postman, who is R.W.M. of the Lodge. Scarcely two dozen of the general public waited at the entrance to the lodge to witness the arrival of His Royal Highness, accompanied by Mr. Gavin Ralston, factor to the Earl of Strathmore.

At the ceremony R.W.M. Beattie presented the Duke with an apron with the Glamis colours as a souvenir of the occasion. Brother W. Harvey, Provincial Grand Master, who presented the Duke with his diploma of membership and welcomed him to the Lodge, read the following telegram from the Grand Master Mason of Scotland (Sir Iain Colquhoun, Bt.):—

"Grand Lodge sends warm fraternal greetings to new affiliate and welcomes his entrance to Scottish Freemasonry."

The Lodge gave His Royal Highness a true Scottish welcome with "three times three."

"MOTHER LODGE OF SCOTLAND"

In reply, the Duke said that by joining Lodge Glamis he had forged another link with the ancient and historic house of Glamis, and he would always look upon Glamis Lodge as his mother lodge in Scottish Freemasonry.

Afterwards the Duke had tea with office-bearers of the Lodge and with distinguished visiting masons.

His Royal Highness joined the craft in 1919, and at the present time is Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex and a member of the Grand Lodge of England. He has agreed to accept the office of Grand Master Mason of Scotland and will be installed at Edinburgh on November 30, when the Grand Lodge will celebrate its bicentenary.

May 21. The weather was exceptionally bad—the report in "The Times" described the English Channel conditions as "fresh, strong north-easterly winds, mainly cloudy, showers, and sea rough." Under these conditions, including the run down the Thames, where speed is necessarily limited, the boat arrived at Portsmouth in a running time of 6hr. 55min., which works out at an average speed of a little over 30 knots. The return journey was made at an average speed of 33 knots.

It is believed that this boat is the fastest torpedo-carrying war vessel in the world, in which case Messrs. Thornycroft have added another to the numerous speed records created by vessels built by them since 1876.

THE MOON'S OUR HOME

Beulah Bondi's versatility is again attested by her present role in support of Margaret Sullivan star of Walter Wanger's "The Moon's Our Home" which opens shortly at the Queen's Theatre.

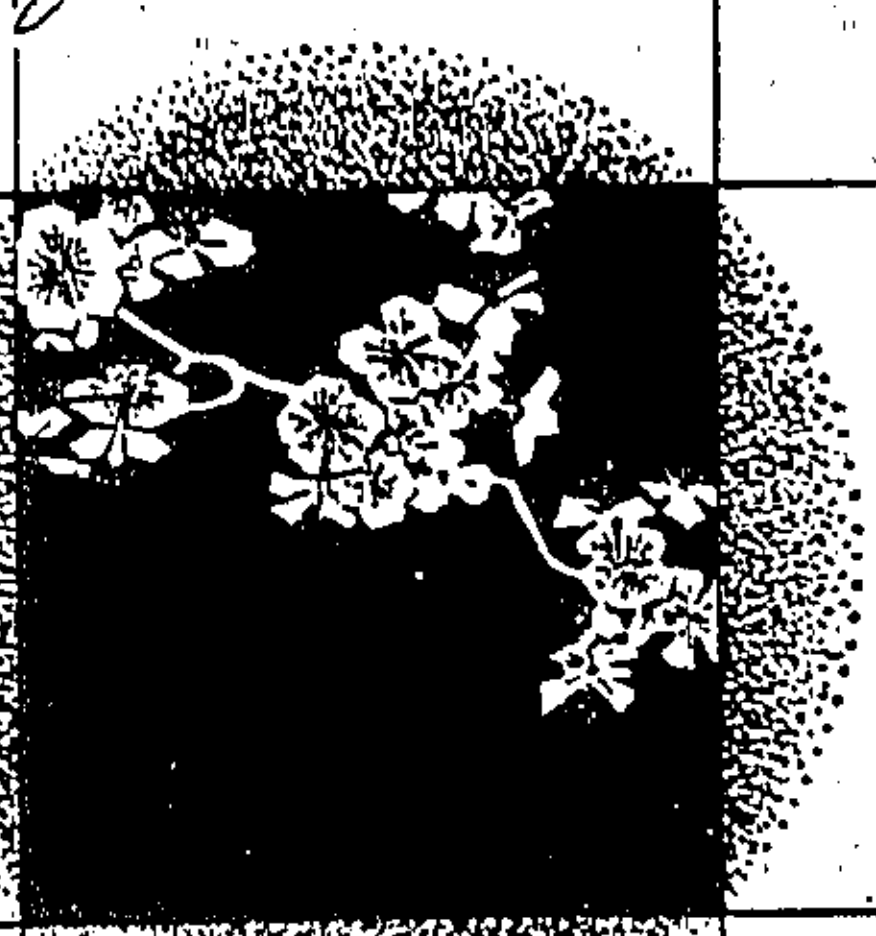

Recently seen as the emotional mountain mother in Paramount's "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," she plays the role of an almost acrobatic secretary to a vase-throwing, fiery-tempered screen actress. "The Moon's Our Home" is the screen dramatization of Faith Baldwin's story of two 'Internationals,' celebrities who learn to hate each other by reputation. When they finally meet under assumed names, they fall desperately in love. They marry, and the clash of temperaments results in a heated quarrel on their wedding night, with the bride walking out on the bridegroom. They relent, and their frantic efforts to locate one another lead to many startling and amusing situations.

With Miss Bondi in support of Margaret Sullivan are Henry Fonda, Henrietta Crosmann, Charles Butterworth, and Dorothy Stickney.

The accused men were: So Tak, 29, unemployed house cooler, No. 30 Hollywood Road, of Singapore; and Tsang Tin, 27, tea-house employee, of No. 1 Bowring Street, ground floor.

LARGE SCALE SMUGGLING OF OPIUM

Early Morning
Seizure

ARMS UNEARTHED

A large seizure of Persian opium, in excess of 11,500 taels on board a junk said to have come from Macao, made by Sergeant May of the Water Police, was related at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday with the appearance of three seamen and the master of a fishing craft before Mr. E. Himsworth. The opium was stated to be valued at $34,000.

In addition, to a charge of unlawful possession of opium, the men were charged with possession of a revolver and seven rounds of ammunition. Inspector Andrews of the Water Police, who prosecuted said that the men did not attempt to disperse the contraband or use the firearms on the approach of the police. The accused were: Li San, 32, master of junk No. 4369HA, Cheung Mak Kan, Lai Shui, and Ng Yung Shing, all described as seamen.

The seizure was made a little north of Green Island at about 3.40 a.m. on June 13, said the prosecuting officer. Sergt. May was on patrol in Police launch No. 8 when he saw a craft approaching from the open sea proceeding South East towards Kennedy Town. The usual lights were burnt on the bow and stern of the craft which was a fishing vessel of 153 piculs. The four accused were on board when the police approached her. There was no legitimate cargo being transhipped, but under the hatchway was found several packages containing two tins each. In all 24 tins were unearthed, representing 11,508 taels of Persian opium.

REVOLVER FOUND

Continuing the search, said the prosecuting officer, a 38 revolver of Spanish origin was found with six fully loaded chambers. A pair of binoculars were found nearby. At the stern of the ship was found a further round of ammunition on the deck.

"No attempt was made to disperse the opium, or use the fire arms," said Inspector Andrews. It

CRUELTY TO A BEAR

Charged with cruelty to a bear by keeping it in a cage, the measurements of which barely allowed room for the animal to turn around, Chan Kai, 36, appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court yesterday.

Defendant said that he gave the bear two baths a day.

Det-Inspector C. Stimson said that the bear was being showed to the public outside a shop for one or two cents. The cage was tipped on its hind legs.

Defendant said that he had come from Macao where he had had an offer for the bear. He refused to sell it because the prospective buyer had wanted to cut it up.

Mr. Balfour said that these cases were always exaggerated and warned the defendant to be careful in this Colony because he would be pulled up for obstruction.

FOR OBSERVATION

Wong Sang, 40, unemployed appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court yesterday charged with the larceny of 18 fathoms of rope, the property of the master of the lighter, San Wan at the P and O wharf in Connaught Road.

Det-Serg. Bryon was for the prosecution.

The case was remanded from Wednesday for the defendant to be medically examined. Yesterday Sergt. Bryon said that Dr. Shaw had suggested that the defendant be sent to an institute for observation.

The defendant was thus discharged with a caution.

TO BE SENT TO MACAO

Wong Wong-ni, a female ban-lshee who appeared on remand before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court yesterday was banished again. This time to Macao.

Defendant said previously that she had come back to Hong Kong to look for her husband who had not supported her while she was away.

OPIUM ADDICT'S LAPSE

STOLE FROM SISTER

Summoned by his sister for the larceny of an ivory curio and nine opium pipe tops, Lu Sang, 30, unemployed appeared before Mr. W. Schotfield at the Central Court yesterday. The stolen articles were valued at $413 and were the property of Lu Pak Sang, a married woman living at No. 22, Venetia Street.

Inspector A. E. Carey said that the defendant was in the habit of visiting his sister's house and on June 8 she found the curio missing. Defendant admitted to the theft and selling it. His sister later redeemed the article. It was then discovered that the nine opium pipe tops had also been stolen and the defendant was arrested. He admitted to selling five of the tops to a marine dealer, the other four were pawned and the tickets sold to a curio dealer who had in turn resold them. Defendant was an opium addict and his sister did not wish to press the charge.

Defendant was remanded for 24 hours to find out how long it would take to cure him of the habit.

was thought probable, that the revolver would be utilised for repelling rivals.

EXEMPLARY SENTENCE ASKED

The master of the junk told the police that he was given the firearms by a man in Macao. He had received instructions to tranship the opium to another junk off Green Island. "That junk was never found," said Inspector Andrews.

The prosecution pressed for an exemplary sentence as the case was regarded very serious. The quantity of opium found was large and in addition firearms were unearthed.

The Magistrate: I regard this as a bad case of smuggling deserving of the maximum penalty. Therefore I impose on all the defendants a fine of $2,500 or in default, six months and one year's imprisonment.

Li San, who pleaded guilty to possession of the revolver was additionally sentenced to one year's imprisonment, the term to run concurrently.

ONE SHOT FIRED

Armed Men Board And Rob A Junk

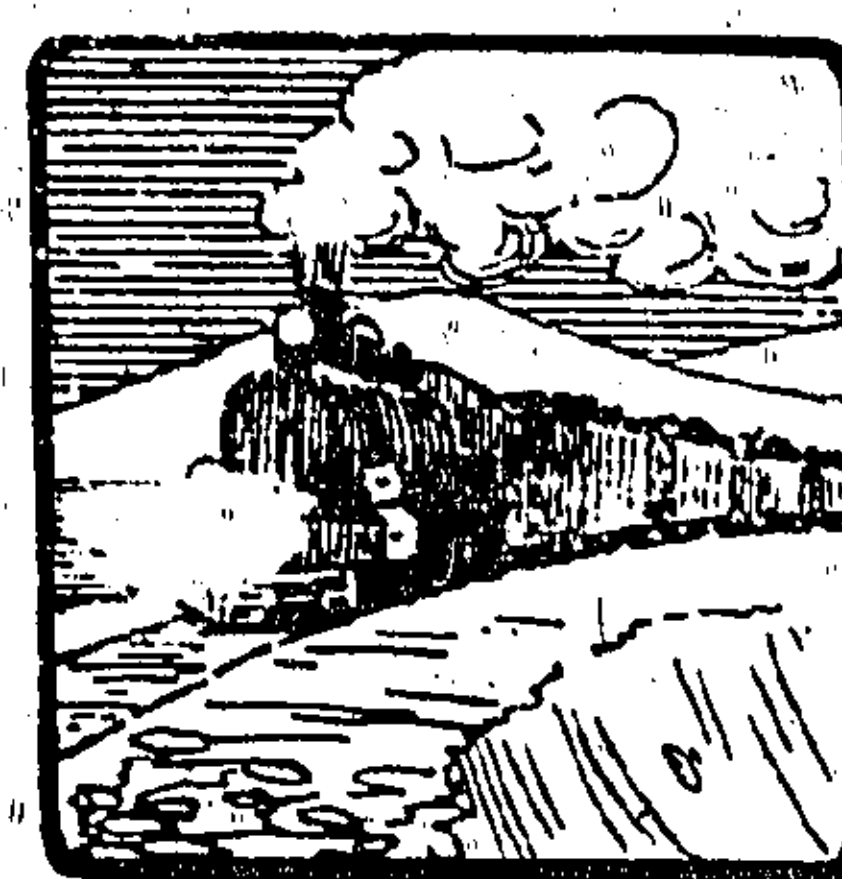

Committal proceedings were commenced at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday against two unemployed seamen charged with participation in an armed robbery on board junk No. TS903H off Sau Shi Mun on April 29, when 50 sacks of rice, two sacks of yellow beans, one dozen lamp shades and a quantity of clothing were stolen.

Detective-Sergt. A. Kinnear said that one shot was fired before the men hoisted and boarded the junk. The men were armed, with revolvers, a rifle and knives.

In statements to the Police, both men, Tang Cheung, 31, and Lau Mun, 47, denied participation.

The complainant, Lau Ng with a crew of three, were engaged in trading between Chinese territory and Shau Ki Wan, said the prosecuting officer. At 6 a.m. on April 29, junk No. TS903H left Shau Ki Wan with a cargo of 114 sacks of rice, two sacks of yellow beans and a dozen lamp shades. While just off Sau Shi Mun at mid-day, the crew on the junk saw three boats of six men in each approach them from the mainland. A warning shot was fired. "One man was armed with a rifle, two with revolvers and another with a knife. When they boarded the junk, yet another, unarmed also came on board. The master and his crew of three were herded in the aft hole where they remained for five or six hours. Hearing no commotion above, they eventually regained the deck, where an inventory of the cargo was taken. It was then discovered that 50 sacks of rice, two sacks of yellow beans, 12 lamp shades and a quantity of clothing belonging to the master and crew were missing. The junk returned to Shau Ki Wan, where a report of the occurrence was made at the Shau Ki Wan and Wester Police Stations.

At this stage, the Magistrate remarked that the lamp shades were not included in the charge sheet. The prosecuting officer apologised for this oversight, stating that when the accused were originally apprehended the lamp shades were not included in the charge. An amendment including these articles, was accordingly made by the Magistrate.

ARRESTS MADE

On May 9, eight days after reporting to the police, the complainant was strolling in Shau Ki Wan, when he saw the first accused. He followed the latter to the ferry wharf. Complainant went straight to the police and in the company of a detective No. 336 came across the accused seated near the wharf.

At a subsequent identification parade, two members of the crew recognised the accused.

In answer to the charge, accused denied knowledge of the robbery. "These men identified me as they know me."

Following information received, second accused was arrested on May 28. Complainant failed to recognise the man, but a witness picked him out.

Second accused in answer to the charge said: "They have falsely accused me. I did not take part in the robbery."

One of the crew, named Fung Kau, said Sergt. Kinnear had taken ill, and went back to the country without the knowledge of the police. The prosecution therefore only had three witnesses.

BETTER BUSINESS REPORTED

Despite Depressed Condition Of Trade

CHINESE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE'S REPORT

The annual general meeting of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce was held in the Chamber's Board Room, Connaught Road Central, yesterday afternoon, when the Chairman reviewed the business events of the past year and presented the accounts for adoption.

Among those present at the meeting were Mr. Li Sing Kui (Chairman), Mr. Wong Mow Lum (Vice-Chairman), Mr. Chan Kam Por (Treasurer), Mr. Ts'o Hok Yue (Secretary), Messrs. Lau King Ching, Fung Ki-Cheuk, Tang Chi Cheong, Li Yiu Tong, Sin Pui Kwan, Au Chak Sum, Lau Yuk Wan, Kwok Hin Wang, Chu Shiu Wah, Mok Ying Kwai, Yue Chuek Sang, Chiu Chiu Fan, Lam Kow Mow, Kwok Yau Ting, Ko Chung Nam, Lui Yam Shuen, Chiu Chan Yue, Cheong Lan Chow, Yung Koon Man, Dr. Li Ping Sum and several other representatives of the various business associations and guilds.

After the accounts had been passed in the usual manner, the Chairman said that in spite of the continued depressed condition of trade during the year under review, and the violent fluctuations in the exchange, which rendered business transactions most difficult, the volume of business done by local Chinese merchants during the year was in excess of that of the previous year. He also expressed his high appreciation of the co-operation of the Executive Committee in the Chamber's success.

The Chairman's address, which was delivered in Chinese, was translated into English by Mr. Ts'o Hok Yue, Secretary of the Chamber.

THE CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

Addressing the gathering, the Chairman, Mr. Li Sing Kui said:—

Gentlemen:—As we all know, we are gathering together here this afternoon to review the various events of the past year and to inspect the accounts as published in the Annual Report to which I like to draw your kind attention.

In the meantime, I should like to take this opportunity on behalf of the Chamber, to thank the Executive Committee and the members of the Chamber for their co-operation and valuable services which they have so liberally rendered for the benefit of the Chamber and for the advantage of the Chinese trades at large. On my part, I feel even more grateful to them for their useful co-operation but for which, I would have found myself too incapable of carrying on the work of the Chamber and our success would not have been as notable as it is. I earnestly hope that such co-operation will ever be existing among us for the sake of the Chamber and the acceleration of improvement of trade in the Colony. We are also much indebted to the Government officials of different departments the trade commissioners in Hong Kong and the consuls for the different countries for their kind assistance and information from time to time. Thanks should also be extended to the British consuls at Bangkok and Saigon for their kind support in furnishing us with rice information.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN TRADE

During last year the trade in Hong Kong showed a slight increase according to the statistics of the imports and exports of the Colony, recorded in the Government Trade Returns. Most dealers handling Rubber Shoes, Tin and Wood Oil realized large profits last year, while at the same time dealers in other commodities were suffering from the world depression and it is needless for me to say that under such circumstances no prominent feature has been shown in the trade of Hong Kong during the last year with the exception of Tin and Wood Oil etc.

However, we may cherish the hope that bad times may pass away like dark clouds after a heavy rain, and bright days may come again, perhaps in the near future. In this respect, I am glad to report to you that the Subcommittee for the revival of prosperity in trade, is now being very busy at work, making all sorts of schemes and thinking of all sorts of good devices for trade recovery, leaving no stone unturned. We wish them every success in what they are undertaking to do for the good of the Colony and we hope that their suggestions and recommendations will meet with the favourable consideration of the Government and that assistance may be obtained from the Government for the completion of their work.

MEMBERSHIP

The number of the members of the Chamber at present is nearly one thousand. Of course, we are not yet contented with so small a number in consideration of the fact that Hong Kong is such an important sea-port and that Chinese merchants are in such a great number, and I am sure that there is every possibility of a large increase of members in this Chamber, since the necessity for union and organization is more deeply felt nowadays by the merchants under the present environment when united strength is urgently needed for the uplifting of social interest and general welfare of a community.

While we are concentrating our mind to business enterprises, we do not forget our duty in promoting social culture in the Chinese community in Hong Kong. Our public library is testifying to what we are aiming at. Keen attention has been paid to the work of our public library which is meant for the benefit of the public and the help of public education, and it is gratifying to see that under the good management of our librarian, Mr. K. Y. Lee, the library is kept in good order and the number of the library-goers is ever increasing day by day. We are planning for an extension of our library and the enlargement of the stock of books, pending favourable opportunity which may soon arise with the assistance of the public, especially those in the educational circle and those who have generous hearts for public affairs.

DUTY TO SUPPORT

I do not want to waste words on the minute details of the affairs of the Chamber, since they are well recorded in the annual report and the monthly magazines. In conclusion, let me remind you again, Gentlemen, that it should be realized that this Chamber is a big organization of all the Chinese merchants in Hong Kong and that it is the duty and responsibility of every one of us to endeavour to maintain it, to support it, and to make it prosperous for the sake of the trade in Hong Kong. Let us therefore do our best for this good cause.

"RED HEAD DEVIL" AND BEGGAR

Mendicant's Plea

When a beggar appeared before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday charged with mendicancy in Temple Street, he said that he had been sent away from Singapore by the "hung mo kwai" (red head devil).

Accused was warned by Mr. Macfadyen never to use that expression again. The prosecution officer said accused had been in the Colony for about a month.

Accused was bound over in $20 for one year.

KONG MOON NEWS

Little Danger Of Flood

(By Our Special Correspondent)

Kong Moon, June 17.

THE EXCHANGE SITUATION

The continued bright weather of the June days is helping to allay the fear of a threatened flood after the very heavy rains of two weeks ago. Usually about the middle of June the West River attains its highest level. This summer however there is very little danger of a flood just now.

For more than a week, the S. S. "San Naam Ho" has been in dock, and as the S.S. "Kwong Fook Cheung" has been taken off the Hong Kong-Kong Moon run there are now only three steamers, the "Yuet On" and the "Tai Lee" on one day and the "On Lee" on the other days.

SUMMER FRUITS

The country markets are again well stocked with summer fruits and vegetables. The litchee crop appears to be a good one this summer as quantities of this luscious fruit are carried about in large baskets by the hawkers. Quite a variety of good plums are also produced in this district. There are also plenty of peaches, mangoes and bananas at this season of the year. The first crop of rice has already made a good start and the fields are a picture with the rich deep green under the June sunshine. During these days the cicadas are working overtime their shrill chirping being heard among the leafy branches of many trees. Taken altogether the month of June in South China is a colourful season with abundance of life manifested on every hand.

RISE IN EXCHANGE

The sudden rise in the exchange on Hong Kong notes is causing many to wonder what it is all about. When a man receives $18.00 in Kwangtung bills for a $10.00 Hong Kong note he begins to wonder what is happening to the new Kwangtung paper currency. One thing that he may be assured of, and that is that the prices of all commodities will correspondingly rise. When prices go up, they have a tendency to stay up, even when the cause of the rise is past.

Rev. W. R. and Mrs. McKay left Kong Moon last Tuesday for good, and sailed for Canada on board the Empress of Russia. Mr. and Mrs. McKay were the pioneers in opening work in the United Church of Canada Mission in South China. This was in the year 1902 many years before Church Union in Canada. The work was then under the Presbyterian Church. Mr. and Mrs. McKay have thus spent nearly thirty four years in the work here opening up work in the three districts of Chung Shaan, Sun Wool and in Hok Shaan. They expect to make a home in Toronto. Their two sons and one daughter are now all living in the province of Ontario.

HOUSE-BOY'S THEFT

STOLE TO GAMBLE

Larceny of a watch and money to the total value of $198 from Mr. Edward W. Loveless, of No. 134 Argyle Street, led to the appearance of Tam Huen, 25, described as a house-boy in the employ of the complainant, before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

Mr. Loveless said that the accused had been in his employ for the past seven months at a salary of $15 a month.

Detective Sergt. James Hunter said that on June 11, Mr. Loveless made a report to the police that a gold watch and chain, and $98 in money were missing from a drawer of his dressing table in the bedroom. Enquiries were made by the police which resulted in the arrest of the house boy.

Tam took the police to an address in Shanghai Street, where by virtue of a warrant the premises were searched. In a tin box were found the watch and chain and $50. The accused admitted losing $43 at gambling.

Sentence of one month's imprisonment was imposed, in addition to compensating the complainant to the extent of $48, failing which a further one month in jail was imposed.

TRIBUTES TO LATE MR. JOHNSON

Legal Profession Gather At Supreme Court

TO MOURN HIS DEATH

More than 50 members of the legal profession and the staff of the Supreme Court were present in the main courtroom yesterday when references were made to the late Mr. C. Bulmer Johnson.

The bench was occupied by the Acting Chief Justice (Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden) and the Acting Puisne Judge (Mr. Justice E. H. Williams).

The Acting Chief Justice said:—It is a very sad matter that this is the fifth occasion during the present year on which the Court has sat to take notice of the death of a member of the legal profession of Hong Kong. To-day we mourn the death of Mr. Charles Bulmer Johnson, a Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Judicature, England.

"The late Mr. Johnson came to Hong Kong at the early age of 23 and in 1907 was admitted a Solicitor of this Court. He entered the firm of Messrs. Dennys and Bowley and subsequently became the head of that firm and whilst in that capacity often acted as Crown Solicitor.

When Messrs. Dennys and Bowley amalgamated with Messrs. Hastings he became a partner in the new firm and up to the time of his death he was a partner in the present firm of Messrs. Hastings and Co. In 1917, Mr. Johnson joined the Colours and saw service in India and at the conclusion of hostilities he returned to the Colony and resumed his practice of the law.

KEEN SPORT

"Mr. Johnson's activities were not confined to his profession. He took a prominent part in the social life of the Colony and was a past President of St. George's Society and was on the Committee of the Hong Kong Club. He also identified himself with the sporting life of Hong Kong and took a keen interest in racing and golf.

"As a new-comer to the Colony I had not the privilege of knowing the deceased gentleman intimately; my intercourse with him was, unfortunately, confined to official matters, but it was sufficient to enable me to realise that he combined a sense of humour with an acute mind which always tends to lighten business dealings.

"Mr. Johnson was one of the leading solicitors of this Colony and I am sure his loss will be deeply felt by both branches of the profession. I understand from those who were favoured with his friendship that he was a loyal and true friend, and his death leaves a gap in the social life of the Colony which it will be hard to fill. On behalf of the Bench I desire to express our sense of the loss the Court has sustained by his death and our deep sympathy with his sister and brothers."

ATTORNEY GENERAL

The Attorney General (Mr. C. G. Alabaster) said:—

It is with a feeling of very great sadness that the bar, the solicitors and the Officials of this Court are here to-day to join in your Lordship's tribute to the memory of one who for nearly 30 years has been known to us in this Colony as a staunch friend, an able lawyer and an engaging personality.

I have known him myself for even longer than that, having worked with him in a London solicitor's office 33 years ago; always finding him a hard worker and a courteous gentleman.

Charles Bulmer Johnson, bore a name which had been held in honour in legal circles in this Colony for over 60 years. His uncle, Alfred Bulmer Johnson, and his cousin, Francis, Bulmer Lyon Bowley were both Crown Solicitors. He himself arrived in 1907 joining the firm of Dennys and Bowley and was among the first local solicitors to be made an unofficial Justice of the Peace.

During the Great War he saw military service in India. Subsequently he was admitted a partner in Messrs. Dennys and Bowley, a firm which, later amalgamated with Hastings and Hastings to become Hastings, Dennys and Bowley and is now known as Hastings and Co. He was a prominent member of most of the social clubs and a keen golfer. His death after so short an illness leaves us with a very real and heartfelt sense of loss.

All here present desire to associate themselves most feelingly with your Lordship's tribute to his memory and with the expression of sympathy with his relatives in England.

THOSE PRESENT

Those present were:—Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster (Attorney General), Messrs. Eldon Potter K.C., H. G. Sheldon K.C., Leo d'Almada e Castro junior, Hing-shing Lo and H. C. Macnamara. Messrs. T. M. Hazlerigg (Crown Solicitor), E. P. H. Lang (Registrar), W. J. Lockhart-Smith (Land Officer), J. E. Prentis (Official Receiver), M. J. Abbott (Assistant Registrar).

Messrs. A. el Arculli, H. J. Armstrong, D. H. Blake, E. S. C. Brooks, F. K. d'Almada e Castro senior, Edgar Davidson, D. B. Evans, J. M. Hall, C. Y. Kwan, Hon. Mr. K. Lo, M. W. Lo, F. H. Loseby, D. McCallum, W. A. Mackinlay, H. S. V. Mossep, S. Ng Quinn, J. T. Prior, K. Robinson, C. E. R. Sanderson, Peter H. Sin, D. L. Strellet, R. A. Wadson, and F. Zimmerman. Many members of the staff of the Supreme Court.

PRESENT AT FUNERAL

By a printer's error the names of the Acting Chief Justice (Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden) and the Registrar of the Supreme Court (Mr. E. P. H. Lang) were omitted from the list published yesterday of those present at the funeral of the late Mr. C. Bulmer Johnson.

AN ERROR

In our obituary notice of yesterday regarding the funeral of the late Mr. C. Bulmer Johnson, it was erroneously stated that a wreath from W. J. R. Cragg was sent representing H. E. the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott. The wreath was in fact sent by Capt. W. J. R. Cragg personally.

KING'S MEMORY IN PARK

Hong Kong Plans To Raise Fund

It is probable that Hong Kong's memorial to the late King George will be a park and playground in a congested area.

It was announced officially yesterday that the Executive Council and Finance Committee of the Legislative Council had had under informal consideration proposals for the raising by public subscription of a memorial fund.

Nothing has yet been decided but sympathy has been expressed with the suggestion that, as in England, the purpose of the fund should be to provide open spaces in congested areas.

Inquiries are being made in Ceylon and Malaya as to what is likely to be done in those territories.

It is understood that the Hong Kong Chamber of Commerce also has the matter under consideration.

TOYS AND ITS APPEAL

Charged with the larceny of a box of toys and a spittoon, Chan Hing, 19, unemployed, appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court and was sentenced to one month.

Sub-Inspector. Sabey said that the defendant was seen by a District Watchman to take the things from No. 27, Bonham Strand East.

A MENACE TO EMPIRE SHIPPING LINKS

Our attention has been drawn to the menace to the British lines on the Empire routes across the Pacific. Remembering that Mr. Neville Chamberlain has said, "We are not going to see British ships swept off the face of the ocean," and that his words have been echoed by Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Runciman, the public will feel surprised that this matter of the Pacific routes has been allowed to remain under deliberation for four years, until the services concerned are approaching what the Hon. Alexander Shaw has described as "early and inevitable disaster."

Already notice has been given that the Union Steamship service between Australia and San Francisco will be abandoned in November. If the Canadian Australasian Line is not to meet a similar fate the Governments concerned must come to the rescue quickly. Losses of both companies have risen to a point at which private enterprise must admit defeat.

This position has been brought about by the competition, along trade routes created by British enterprise, of American liners built with Government assistance, heavily subsidised in their working and with certain branches of trade reserved to them by legislation. Under such conditions the older, smaller and slower British ships, wholly dependent upon their earnings, cannot pay their way. Government loans for building adequate vessels and payments that will make their voyages remunerative are imperative if the British flag is to continue in the Pacific trade or to put the matter plainly, if vital links in Empire communications are not to be severed. The amount of money required is small by comparison with the grants already made to tramp shipping. Such a sum as is needed could be provided with ease if the four Governments concerned—those of Australia, New Zealand, Canada and Great Britain—each bore its appropriate share. Discussions with Dominion statesmen now in this country are going forward. There should not be the lingering doubt whether the "All-Red Route" is to be maintained and made at least as efficient as the American enterprise.

BIG DOLLAR IN CANTON

Adoption In Three Stages

Canton, June 18. It is reliably understood that the Canton authorities are contemplating the adoption of the big dollar system in three stages.

Firstly, the Central Government will give Kwangtung a special appropriation of ten million dollars to cover losses resulting from the changed currency system. The notes of the Kwangtung Provincial Bank and Canton Municipal Bank are to continue in circulation.

Secondly, Kwangtung's silver stock will be placed under the control of the note issue and supervisory committee which will be authorised to buy thirty million dollars worth of big dollar notes from the Bank of China, Bank of Communications and Central Bank, with an equivalent amount of silver. The Provincial and Municipal Banks shall gradually recall local note issues.

Thirdly, after all notes of the Kwangtung Provincial Bank and Canton Municipal Bank are recalled, only big dollar notes will be legal tender.

Subsidiary notes may, however, be still issued by the local Government Banks.

MR. CHOU LOU AT NAPLES

Canton, June 18. Mr. Chou Lou, Chancellor of Sun Yat-sen University and Nanking Kuomintang leader, arrived at Naples this afternoon aboard the Italian liner Victoria. Accompanied by Prof. Cheng Hung-hao, Chancellor Chou will visit Rome before going to Heidelberg, Germany.

There is no truth in a Shanghai dispatch published in vernacular papers here stating that Mr. Chou will return to China to attend the second plenary session of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee.

REPORT DISCOUNTED
Canton, June 18. Well-informed circles discount the report that Mr. Chou Lou is returning from abroad to attend the second plenary session in response to General Chiang Kai-shek's request. It is pointed out that Mr. Chou Lou is at present in Italy interviewing Signor Mussolini and it is impossible to return in time for the Nanking conference scheduled early July.

AIR PASSAGE THRILLS

Hindenburg Attracts Large Crowds

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)
Frankfurt-on-Main, June 18. The number of people desiring to experience the thrills of passage through the air in the new transatlantic liner Hindenburg continues far in excess of the available accommodation.

The glorious summer weather now prevailing enables the Hindenburg to start a day earlier so that on Thursday morning at 7.25 seventy-seven passengers went aboard at Friedrichshafen and landed safely at Frankfurt, while fifty-two others started at 8.10 for a trip all round Germany, expecting to be home again on Thursday evening.

At 10.45 a.m. the Hindenburg passed over Essen, this being the first time an airship was seen in the Ruhr industrial district.

COMMONS DEBATE ON SANCTIONS

Keen Public Interest Displayed

LLOYD GEORGE TO SPEAK

London, June 18. There is every indication that there will be large attendance of members and that all available accommodation for strangers will be fully occupied when the House of Commons debate on sanctions takes place this afternoon.

Main interest centres in the speech with which the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, will open the debate and that of the Prime Minister which will conclude it at about 7.30 p.m.

Leaders of both Opposition Parties and Mr. Lloyd George, who occupies an independent position, have indicated their intention to speak.

A further opportunity for Members to express their views on the international situation will arise next week, probably Tuesday, when foreign affairs will again be debated.

British Wireless.

BRITISH ATTITUDE

London, June 17. Formal decision in favour of discontinuing sanctions against Italy, if such a course represents the general feeling at Geneva, is believed to have been taken at to-day's weekly meeting of the British Cabinet.

The Ministers having already agreed in principle on this policy, it is believed that to-day's meeting will have been largely occupied with the attitude of the Dominions, especially in view of General James Hertzog's reaffirmation last night that South Africa staunchly adhered to the sanctions policy, and would continue to do so in spite of any contrary action by Britain and France.

In the meantime observers are waiting to see the effect the prospective raising of sanctions will have on Italy's foreign policy.

According to Rome reports, although official quarters consider the removal of sanctions certain, Italy is unwilling to discuss Italian collaboration in Europe until sanctions are actually taken off. Hence, even if it is announced in the House of Commons to-morrow that Great Britain will propose their removal, Italy will not attend the Montreux talks on June 22. Sanctions cannot be removed before this date, since the League of Nations meets later.

It is not yet clear whether Italy will be satisfied with the removal of sanctions or will seek to obtain a reversal of Geneva's judgment, holding her an aggressor. Nevertheless, Italian observers entertain no doubt of Italy's eventual full co-operation in European politics.

Reuter.

FRENCH VIEWPOINT

Paris, June 17. It is understood that the French viewpoint with regard to the reported decision of the British Government to favour the lifting of anti-Italian sanctions is that, while the Socialist Government is unwilling to take such an initiative, it is prepared to follow with reluctance the lead Britain gives.

Reuter's Bulletin Service.

ITALIAN INTENTIONS

Rome, June 17. While official circles are reticent, it is generally felt that when "the stigma of sanctions" has been wiped out Italy will be ready to re-enter the European concert.

A four-power pact between Britain, France, Germany and Italy is believed to be one of Signor Benito Mussolini's aims in foreign policy. This would be something in the nature of a super-regional pact, providing a model for others to be made by the smaller powers of Europe.

It is denied that after the removal of sanctions Italy will discriminate in any way between sanctionists and non-sanctionists in foreign trade, though it is admitted that owing to the fact that Italy is now producing more commodities she formerly bought abroad her imports will consequently be fewer.

Reuter.

DEBATE INTEREST

London, June 17. To-morrow's foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons is awaited with the greatest interest.

It is learned there is no question of Mr. Anthony Eden resigning his post as Foreign Secretary. On the contrary, he will make a strong, fighting speech, supporting and explaining the Government's readiness to drop sanctions.

ANTHONY EDEN

MR. EDEN OPENS DEBATE

Cries Of "Shame" And "Resign"

GENEVA SANCTIONS DECISION

London, June 18. Opening the sanctions debate in the House of Commons this afternoon, Mr. Anthony Eden recited the many occasions on which the Government took the lead at Geneva. He said they proposed to do so again.

Answering a question what should the League do, he said: "We have to admit the purpose for which sanctions were imposed has not been realised."

He added: "The Government after mature consideration on the advice which I as Foreign Secretary thought it my duty to give have come to the conclusion they have no longer any utility in continuing sanctions as a means of pressure against Italy."

Mr. Eden's announcement was followed by loud cries and opposition shouts of "shame, resign!"

MEDITERRANEAN FEARS

It was the Government's view that the Mediterranean assurances under paragraph three of Article Sixteen of the Covenant given by Britain should not end with the raising of sanctions, but should continue to cover the period of uncertainty which must necessarily follow any termination of sanctions. The Government regarded any such eventuality as there was reason for the original assurances as being not only hypothetical but improbable. The assurances would operate as long as in the Government's opinion they remain appropriate.

In the light of the experience of recent months, the Government is determined that it is necessary that we maintain permanently in the Mediterranean a stronger defensive position than that existing before the dispute began. Arrangements will be made shortly to carry out this declaration.

GERMAN REPLY

Mr. Eden added that the Government felt justified in looking for an early reply from the German Government which they trusted would enable progress to be made with the negotiations which was their first object to see successfully realised.

Reuter.

(Mr. Eden was still speaking at time of going to press.)

Mr. Eden will speak first. He will be followed by Mr. Arthur Greenwood, of the Labour Opposition, and by Sir Archibald Sinclair, of the Liberal opposition.

Major Clement Attlee, Labour leader, and Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, are expected to wind up the debate, which will end at 7.30 p.m.

DISCLAIMEDAnother Appeal To Move
Against Invader

Canton, June 18. Generals Chen Chi-tang, Li Chung-jen and Pai Chung-hsi sent a strongly worded telegram to General Chiang Kai-shek to-day regretting that the South-west's anti-Japanese expedition is misunderstood by the Central Government and reaffirming that no ulterior motives are behind the despatch of troops to Hunan.

"The object of the mobilisation was to set an example to the nation that anti-Japanese resistance policy must be put into action. The move is entirely against foreign aggression, and we not only had no thought of civil strife but are firmly opposed to any form of civil warfare."

"It is true that some troops were despatched to Hunan, but the Central Government order was still awaited for the northward march. However, as the Central Government could not see the viewpoint of the South-west, we will voluntarily withdraw our forces back to within the Kwangtung and Kwangsi border."

The telegram earnestly urges armed resistance against Japan, declaring that such a step is the only way to preserve existence, and deploring the fact that although the national enemy is in the North the Central Government forces should move in a south-west direction.

Finally the message appeals to the Generalissimo to respect public opinion and lead the country to fight the invaders.

Madrid, June 18.

At a meeting of the Catalan Left Wing Group known as the "Esquerra" held on Wednesday night, the deputies voiced an energetic protest against the appointment of General Batet as commanding general of the 6th Division of the Spanish Army, declaring that it would be incomprehensible how Batet, who had been one of the military advisers of the last State President and in October 1934 carried out the overthrow of the separatist revolt in Barcelona, should have been entrusted with such a Right command under the Government of the Popular Front.

The Catalan Left Wing group drew up a protest note threatening to withdraw the Spanish Labour Minister who belongs to the "Esquerra" from the Cabinet.

BELGIAN STRIKE
SITUATIONWORKERS CONFER WITH EMPLOYERS

HOPE FOR EARLY SETTLEMENT

(Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)

Brussels, June 18.

Hopes for an early termination of the strike have again been revived in view of an agreement reached between representatives of the workers and employers associations in a meeting presided over by Premier van Zeeland. The agreement, acceptance of which will be recommended by the delegates to the respective associations, provides: (1) General increase of wages on the scale of a minimum of 32 francs a day; (2) a paid annual holiday of at least six days; (3) recognition by the employers of the workers' right to form labour unions; (4) introduction of the 40-hour week in those occupations where the health of the labourer is affected.

A meeting of the Cabinet, was held immediately after this conference at which the situation was examined.

An official communique issued subsequently expresses the expectation that the existing tension will now be relieved.—Transocean News Service

HOPEFUL TURN

Brussels, June 18. There was a hopeful turn in the strike situation last night at a meeting between employers and Trade Union delegates under M. van Zeeland's presidency which agreed to terms to be discussed immediately by the individual industries.

The terms include acknowledgment of the right of the workers to organise Trade Unions, a minimum daily wage of 30 to 32 francs, paid holidays during an average of six days yearly, progressive reduction of hours with a view to establishment of a 40-hour week in dangerous and arduous occupations.

The Brussels Federation of Trade Unions decided to ignore these efforts and call out the workers at the capital.—Reuters

GRAVE INCIDENTS

Brussels, June 17. A series of grave incidents are reported from Liege on Wednesday, and they clearly indicate that the strike movement in that city is beginning to assume a distinctly revolutionary character. A group of strikers, incited by agitators tried to storm a shop where firearms were sold, but the attack broke down when the police arrived on the scene and arrested 15 persons. At about noon time a detachment of mounted police was seen galloping through the streets at tremendous speed, and a few minutes later it became known that an alarm call had been received from a railway station of the Liege Brussels line, where rioters were trying to wreck the signal system. It is said that the police made 50 arrests. On Wednesday morning, numerous strikers strolled round the streets of Liege and tried to hold up traffic by holding lorries and private cars.—Transocean News Service

ARMS FACTORY RAIDED

Brussels, June 17. The strike situation remains delicate.

Hopes are being built on the fact that the Prime Minister, M. Paul Van Zeeland, is presiding at a meeting of the more important employers and workers' organisations to-day. This meeting is being held with a view to reaching a compromise which will encourage industrial peace.

Liege remains the most disturbed centre, but the strikers are not attempting the "stay-in" tactics. A few armoured cars and machine guns are patrolling the streets, since some of the strikers overturned milk lorries.

The situation took a graver turn later when strikers tried to raid a small arms factory. Police drove them off and arrested fifteen.

Gangs are going about the city trying to hold up traffic and it has been necessary to order several police charges to disperse them.

The big stores have closed, as a precautionary measure. Nearly all the dock workers at Ghent are out, being anxious to secure the same concessions as their Antwerp colleagues, a two shilling daily raise, and no overtime.

There are 4,500 railway wagons standing idle in Antwerp.—Reuters Bulletin Service

LAWN TENNIS

PERRY BEATEN BY VON CRAMM

(Special Air Mail Service)

Paris, June 1

G. von Cramm, of Germany, regained the International Singles Championship of France at Auteuil to-day by beating F. J. Perry, to whom he lost it last year, by three sets to two (6-0, 2-6, 8-2, 2-6, 6-0). It was the third time during the past year that the two players had met in a final match, and though the score of the fifth set tells its tale of the complete breakdown of Perry, normally the finest fighter of them all for the full distance, one cannot but admire the firm purpose with which von Cramm has achieved an ambition. Last year's ending to the Women's Singles was also replayed, this time with the same result, for however long Mme. R. Mathieu was prepared to keep the ball in play, Froken S. Sperling, the lady champion, won the point often enough to take the match in straight sets (6-4, 6-4).

The centre court at the Stade Roland Garros was by no means so full as in the heyday of the meeting—the great players of France have passed from the scene and others are still in the making—but a fairly large Bank Holiday gathering looked on amid the cold showers with which the afternoon opened. The sun was shining when Perry came out with the entire confidence of most people that he would keep his championship at the cost perhaps of a little greater endeavour than last year. The fifth set had not been long under way when he looked, and was, a beaten man, to such an extent, indeed, that his fall was embarrassing to watch. For most of the three middle sets he played as though his heart was not in the game, and it was only in patches that he met the ball truly with the middle of the racket.

A DISAPPOINTING FINAL

Unlike von Cramm, Perry had been prepared to scramble through the early rounds, and it was not until yesterday, against C. Boususs, that he encountered strokes of real championship class. Perhaps he was too sure of victory to-day; whatever the cause he was certainly not covering the court with his usual speed or his zest for hitting the ball. Probably the match will bring its benefits to both Perry and von Cramm, although, with Perry falling away for the first time, in five sets, and H. W. Austin out of the game, British prospects of keeping the Davis Cup must come out of France rather less bright than they went in. But the end of July is still comfortably far away. For all the brilliance of certain strokes, it was not a final match so good that it could disturb the shades of Tilden, Cochet, and Lacoste, who fought so many more stirring battles on the same court. The best match of the meeting, indeed, must remain that between Perry and Boususs.

When due credit has been given to von Cramm's attacking strokes, the deliberate murder in his service, and the wide sweeping of his low forehand drive across the court, those love sets with which the match began and ended cannot be ascribed to any considerable improvement during the winter. He is staid in the critical rallies and has a broader appreciation of attacking values which are centred in making powerful drives on both hands no more than net high and at the widest possible angles. He has the allies of the drives, the drop-shot and the volley, at his command as well as any other player, but Perry showed that von Cramm can still be made to yield to depth and pace in the backhand corner and that, like Perry himself, he is prone to hit down the slow drive in the forehand service court. It had been rumoured that von Cramm had perfected a short, heavilychopped stroke that would have Perry in trouble, but we saw little of it; the straight long drives were doing their work too well.

Von Cramm opened the match with vigorous strokes in such perfect control, hitting winner after winner across the court, that Perry, repeatedly driving out and down, did not make the vestige of a stand for the first set, in which he lost three games to love and scored very few points in the others. The remarkable thing was that the fifth set should go exactly the same way, for, after the interval, Perry, two sets to one down, had come back with all his power of stroke to make the match level, and we all expected that now he would take his revenge for that opening love set. Perry's touch on the back-

Derby Beaten By Ten Wickets

London, June 18.

The cricket match between Derbyshire and Somerset at Ilkeston was concluded within two days with a victory for Somerset by ten wickets.

Derby scored 152 in the first innings with Hunt dismissing seven batsmen at an average cost of seven runs each. Somerset replied with 190.

After dismissing Derby in the second innings for a meagre 62, Somerset made 25 runs without loss to win by ten wickets.

hand, however, deserted him completely. As a stroke it is a law unto Perry, which we may admire but never understand; but now he repeatedly hit down shots plunging close to the body, depending more upon wrist and forearm than the true pivot of the hips.

VON CRAMM'S CONTROL

As von Cramm saw victory in sight he rose to his opportunity with magnificent control. His service came out with greater strength, flicking more terribly than ever aigh up on the backhand, his forehand drive plunged precisely across the court into the far corner, and, what was more unhappy for Perry, he never gave his adversary time to regain command of the rallies, but pressed him mercilessly on the volley. Even when Perry had lost five games and won no more points in this cruel fifth set there was still a faint hope for him, but von Cramm was serving, raced in to turn another of his piercing volleys across the court to reach match point, and with Perry's next stroke he became champion of France, once more as deserving a winner as when he first won the title from another holder, J. H. Crawford.

But Von Cramm, as we have seen, was far from showing that he could hold Perry at his best, any more than he could at Wimbledon last summer. When the tame opening and forehand finish are forgotten we shall still remember that the strokes of the match were Perry's oftener than Von Cramm's. He had the disconcerting passing shot played with drag up the backhand line that Crawford brought to Europe, and that remarkable forehand drive to the off, taken on the run, as well as all the volleys. For the first time he could not stay the distance against the finest player on the Continent, and on the day the better man won, which is all one asks of a game.

There often seemed no reason why the rallies between Mme. Mathieu and Froken Sperling should ever end. To and fro, painfully, slowly, the ball passed over the net, often 50 times for a point. There can be no one who can outdo Froken Sperling in a test of patience, and that, after all, her way of winning matches.

DID NOT LOSE A SET

Mrs. Sperling, by the character of her defence and her indomitable will-power, looked an inevitable winner of the women's title. As last year, she did not lose a set in her progress through the championship.

There is no sounder player on the Continent than Mme. Mathieu, and she has the fluent stroke work and the tactical knowledge to beat all her country-women. But the mechanical efficiency and stolid mobility of Mrs. Sperling were too much for her.

She often returned the ball 50 times over the net in one rally, but it was all to no purpose. Mrs. Sperling was not to be bullied by little inconveniences like that; she was prepared to remain on court all day, and to run a hundred miles if needs be, in defence of her title.

TILDEN'S PUPIL

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm's victory over Perry in the lawn tennis singles at Auteuil is not very surprising. Although he did not win a set against Perry in the final at Wimbledon last year, he played a sound game. Since then Perry has been defeated by players below von Cramm's class.

In the last year, I understand, von Cramm has been coached by Tilden. They have a curious defect in common. In both the top of the index finger of the playing hand is missing.

Tilden lost his through blood-poisoning halfway through his tennis career. Von Cramm's finger was bitten short by a horse when he was a small boy.

£8,000 DEMAND
BY MAX BAER

FOR PETERSEN FIGHT

(Special Air Mail Service)

New York.

Max Baer, former world's heavy-weight champion, 3,000 miles away at Roseville, California, to-day discussed with me by telephone the offer of £8,000 made to him by Mr. Arthur Elvin, the Wembley promoter, for a fight with Jack Petersen, the British champion, in London this summer.

Baer, who is spending a shooting holiday at Roseville, spoke very frankly.

"Six thousand pounds is not enough for a trip to Europe," he said. "I am not afraid of Petersen or anyone else, but my figure for a London fight is £8,000."

"Mr. Elvin's original offer was £5,000. Then he raised it to £6,000."

"I would very much like to meet Petersen, but I won't cross the Atlantic for less than £8,000."

Archie Hoffman, Baer's manager, agreed. "If Mr. Elvin meets our price," he said, "we will bring Buddy Baer, Max's young brother, over with us. But £8,000 is the figure."

Baer's estimate to his box-office value is not shared by most competent critics.

S/Sergt. Cooper and Sergt. Davis (Army T.C.) beat Agafuroff and Bowstead 6-4; beat Faro and Wood 7-5; beat Colledge and Skinner 7-5.

C.C.C. v. C.R.C.

TRADE MARK LABELS

Action Against Drug Firm

COURT ACQUITS DEFENDANT

Action against the Kwong Tung Drug Co., No. 186, Des Voeux Road Central, was taken by Chu Yung Chi, trading as the Chee Yung Hing firm at No. 20 Connaught Road West, in that they, the defendant firm, on April 17 did sell or had in their possession for the purpose of sale or trade certain goods, namely, patent medicine to which a forged trade mark resembling trade mark No. 287 of 1929 was falsely applied.

The case was concluded before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Mr. F. X. d'Almada, Sr., was for the defendant firm, his nephew Leo d'Almada Jr., instructed by Mr. H. A. de B. Botelho was for the prosecution.

Yesterday the evidence of Mr. P. d'Almada Jr., the managing director of the H.K. Printing Press was taken. Witness testified to the falseness of the forgeries saying that they had not been printed by his firm as they did not bear their secret mark. The engraving was more coarse and the colour different. The genuine labels were printed for nobody else but the complainant.

Anyone attempting to reprint these labels might easily overlook the secret mark. The complainant might have made a new block and overlooked the mark.

Mr. F. X. d'Almada then said that he was going to show that the complainant did make a new block and give it to his branch in Canton.

Mr. Leo d'Almada objected to this statement as it had not been put to his witness in the box.

Ho Yan, the manager of the Kwong Tung Drug Store then went into the box and said that he also had a branch in Canton called the Au Ah Drug Store. He said that the Hong Kong branch had dealings with the Hong Kong Yee Fong firm and the Au Ah had dealings with the Canton branch of the Kwong Yee Fong.

At the conclusion of his witness Mr. F. X. d'Almada addressed his witness and submitted that the evidence of the complainant could not be given credence. The defendant had explained how he had come by the goods.

ONUS ON DEFENCE

Mr. Leo d'Almada then said that the onus was on the defence to establish their innocence in their actions. There had never been any authority given to Canton to manufacture the medicine and since 1932 there had been no connections with Canton. Had the complainant given this authority to Canton then he would be bringing an action against his own firm.

The simplest remedy for the defendant would have been to go to the Hong Kong office and ask why the goods were cheaper in Canton than in Hong Kong. Had he done this he would have found out that Canton had no authority any more.

Mr. Balfour, however, held that the defendant had discharged his onus. The evidence that the defendant did not see the circulars or the advertisements in the newspapers was accepted. The defendant was accordingly discharged.

The question of costs was then argued and the Magistrate finally did not award costs.

DEATH INQUIRY REFORM

ATTORNEY-GENERAL TO HAVE LAST SAY NOW

A change is to be introduced into the law regarding the holding of inquests and death inquiries in Hong Kong.

Hong Kong now does not observe the English system of deciding whether an inquest is to be held but follows the Scottish custom of magisterial inquiries where the decision rests with the Magistrate.

It has, however, now been arranged that in every case where a Magistrate deems an inquiry unnecessary, the relevant papers will be forwarded to the Attorney

CENTRAL MARKET TO BE REBUILT

Sudden Decision Due To Collapse

FISH MARKET MAY BE REMOVED

Condemned after 41 years of service, the Central Market between Des Voeux and Queen's Roads is soon to be demolished and replaced by a modern structure.

When a coolie was injured in the market during the week by a falling piece of corrugated iron, attention was drawn to the dilapidated condition of sections of the market. This was followed by the collapse a few days later of part of the first floor.

Examination revealed grave structural defects and that most of the concrete had disintegrated.

When builders decided that it was doubtful if repairs, which would be very costly, would be worth the expense, the Government decided to demolish the present building as soon as possible. While plans for the new structure are being drawn, steps are being taken to prevent further collapses.

$500,000 COST

Plans are already in hand for the new building. It will probably be of three storeys with the ground floor opening on to Des Voeux Road and the first floor on to Queen's Road level. Lifts may possibly be installed.

Cost of the new building is estimated at $500,000.

It is possible too that the fish section of the market will be removed to a site nearer the Praya.

When the present building was erected in 1895, Des Voeux Road was actually the waterfront where the Canton boats berthed and the fish from the river had to be carried only across the road to the market.

Reclamation however has sent the market much farther away from the wharf and it is possible that the fish market will be built on the Praya further east than the present market.

Another reason for the possible transfer of the fish section is the sometimes offensive odour arising from the Central Market.

VICTORIA HOSPITAL TO BE CLOSED

When Queen Mary Is Opened

GOVT. CUTS COSTS

Official announcement of the closing next year of the Victoria Hospital was made by the Government yesterday.

The Governor in Council, in consultation with the medical authorities, has decided that the hospital will no longer be needed when the Queen Mary Hospital is available and will therefore be closed simultaneously with the opening of the new hospital. A large measure of economy is anticipated.

It is anticipated that the Queen Mary Hospital will be opened about the middle of next year.

The closing of Victoria Hospital is not unexpected as the Government's action was forecast by the Governor (Sir Andrew Caldecott) during a debate in the Legislative Assembly on April 22.

Replying to criticisms by Mr. M. K. Lo during the debate on the Civil Service Levy Bill, the Governor then said that the staffing and equipping of the Queen Mary Hospital presented a serious problem and that he had asked the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services (Dr. Wellington) to consider the closing of the Victoria Hospital simultaneously with the opening of the new building.

MONEY TO FIND EMPLOYMENT

False Pretences Alleged

Au Yeung Bun, 20, unemployed appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday facing two charges of obtaining money by false pretences. The charges were (A) obtaining the sum of $60 by false pretences from Chan Ping Sun, living at No. 84, Des Voeux Road West, on April 30 last and (B) obtaining the sum of $50 by false pretences from Au Yeung San on June 3.

Mr. D. MacCallum appeared for the defendant.

Det-Serg. Dowman stating the case for the prosecution said that the first complainant was "known to the defendant since August last year. Defendant went to 94, Des Voeux Road west to visit his brother and for a long time had lived there. On April 25 the first complainant and the defendant were in the shop when the complainant made mention of his being unable to make any headway in his job, and mentioned the Hong Kong Tramways as a possible place for employment. The defendant said that he had a cousin, Wong Ping Kuen working in the Tramway Company and asked the complainant to quickly put his name on the waiting list there. For this a sum of $50 was required as security and $10 as "tea money" for the shroff, Cheung Chi Wo.

The complainant borrowed the money from his brother and three days after the money was paid over the defendant met the second complainant who also said that he would like a job in the Tramways Company. It was arranged that the defendant should use his influence for which $60 was required for security.

They met again at a Restaurant where Cheung Chi Wo handed over two receipts for $60 and the complainants were told that they would be starting work in two or three days.

On June 4 enquiries were made at the Tramway Company and it was found that the defendant was in no position to find them employment and that Cheung Chi Wo was not employed there.

Evidence was then called, at the conclusion of which before the opening of the case for the defence the case was adjourned until next Thursday.

RUSE TO ROB WOMAN

Incident Related In Court

SIX-MONTH TERM FOR ACCUSED

A frustrated attempt to rob a concubine by a simple ruse was told to Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday by a woman, Yu Shun Ching, of No. 59, Yen Chau Street, second floor who related that on May 22, a 27-year-old unemployed man gained entrance to her flat by stating that he was instructed to deliver two sack loads. With him were four other men carrying the sacks between them. When inside the flat they formed a circle round her and accused, Shek Shun Kwok placed his hands over her eyes. She attempted to scream but her efforts were stifled by accused who unceremoniously put his fingers in her mouth.

There were other inmates in the flat besides herself, and one of them blew a police whistle. The men thereupon made a speedy exit, leaving their sacks and other things behind. An Indian constable arrived on the scene and the sacks were found only to contain saw dust. Another parcel, which the accused carried himself and gave to complainant proved to be nothing but wrapping paper.

Sentence of six months' hard labour was imposed by the Magistrate. He said that this was the maximum sentence allowable, which was being imposed because of the prevalence of this type of theft.

A novel feature of the case was the refusal of the complainant to inform the Court whether she had money or jewellery on the premises. Detective Sergeant C. H. Goodwin, (prosecuting) said that the woman had adopted a similar attitude with the Police, who however had reason to believe her money and jewellery were kept on the premises.

NATIONS AND THE LEAGUE

Public Interest In United States And China

Glasgow, June 3. Accounts by delegates of the activity of Leagues of Nations societies in their various countries occupied most of the morning session of the congress of the International Federation of Leagues of Nations Societies here to-day.

A Canadian delegate described how the Canadian society has in the past three years quadrupled its membership, and gave an account of the methods, including broadcasting, courses for school children and courses in League of Nations work for teachers, and a continually increasing number of public meetings, by which this expansion is being carried on.

AMERICAN OPINION

A Turkish member of Parliament, M. Ahmet Tokgor, spoke of the work of the Turkish society to improve cultural relations with Europe, and added, "Without collective security we cannot conceive that the world can continue to exist." A delegate from the United States spoke of sharp fluctuations of opinion which the League of Nations Society there found as the League first attacked the Ethiopian dispute last year it was, he said, more popular in the United States than at any time since 1931.

CONGRESS IN FAR EAST?

The most striking report was made for the Chinese delegation by Mr. Liu Kai, who, speaking in excellent English, suggested that the federation should in the near future consider holding its congress in a Far Eastern town. This, he contended, would be a valuable contact between East and West. The Chinese League of Nations Union had a history as long as the League itself, he said.

Having at first been a small band of intellectuals influential but exclusive, it had two years ago moved its headquarters to Nanking, and had since organised as a national movement. It had now branches in the chief Chinese towns. It was working to counteract the propaganda from certain quarters which sought to "win the Chinese people away from the League, and to misrepresent technical assistance as interference from Europe."

"At a time when faith in the League has been shaken," he said, "it is not without significance that the Chinese League of Nations Union is marching from its reorganisation with renewed strength. China is now the outpost of the League in the Far East."

A resolution on scenes of cruelty in films was moved by the Duchess of Hamilton, who is president of the Animal Defence and Anti-Vivisection Society. The Duchess has organised a propaganda stall in the congress galleries to convince delegates of the importance of humane education in the general cause of world peace. She urged that harm done by films of artificially staged fights between wild animals and scenes of crime and cruelty to animals and human beings should be recognised and amelioration sought.

Her motion produced an unexpected debate. Mr. Liu Kai, while supporting her views, called attention for the Chinese delegation to a particular kind of film which misrepresented the character of certain nations. He proposed an amendment referring to scenes in films calculated to produce racial hatred or international misunderstanding.

In the discussion which followed, the president and Lord Dickinson took the view that the amendment might weaken the emphasis of the resolution, while Dr. Maxwell Garnett supported the Chinese delegate. Mr. Liu Kai explained that he was concerned with scenes representing, for example, Chinese stabbing people silently in the back or Indians performing acts of cruelty.

A modified amendment, proposed by Admiral Drury-Lowe, to insert the three words "create racial hatred" red," was finally carried, and the resolution was adopted to read: "The congress instructs the standing committee on education to consider and report upon the question how best the machinery of the League of Nations may be used to eliminate scenes of cruelty from public cinematograph displays which are calculated to create racial hatred, deteriorate human character, and to lower the standard of human conduct."

Only a small proportion of the delegations voted, however, on either amendment or resolution.

WORLD YOUTH CONGRESS

Almost all the reports gave attention to the preparations which the societies in many countries are making for the World Youth Congress, to be held at Geneva in the autumn. It is hoped that at least three important countries not represented here will send delegates to the Geneva congress. The combined youth movements of Soviet Russia are expected to be represented; Italy is not expected to abstain; and owing to the feeling of the federations that some contact with Germany is desirable, the Hitler Youth has been invited to send delegates.

GERMAN PRAISE OF BRITISH AT JUTLAND

'WORLD'S GREATEST NAVAL BATTLE'

(Special Air Mail Service)

Berlin, June 14. Celebrations of the 20th anniversary of the Battle of Jutland, described in Germany as "the world's greatest naval battle, ending in a German victory," have lasted for three days.

In the Fleet and among the seacoast population a successful effort has been made to restore the spirit which, under Prussian inspiration, ran throughout Germany during the first two years of the war. Jubilation reached its height yesterday, when every ship taking part in the Baltic manoeuvres was ordered to fly the old Imperial War Flag.

With this exaltation of victory was a recognition of the chivalry of British sailors who lost their lives at Jutland. It was expressed by Admiral Raeder, Commander-in-Chief of the German Navy, when Herr Hitler inaugurated the memorial at Laboe, near Kiel, to the 34,838 German sailors who lost their lives in the Great War. "Wherever we fought with the British Navy, at Jutland, Coronel or elsewhere," said Admiral Raeder, "we learned to respect in them foes of like race and character, true to their glorious traditions. They had, like ourselves, a single aim in view—that of making the utmost sacrifice in fulfilling their duty to their country."

HONOUR OF THE FLAG

To-day, on the 20th anniversary of the Battle of Jutland, the German Navy, as it bows its head in the solemn hour before its dead and those of its brave allies, unites with the British Navy in common remembrance of the men who on both sides died a heroic seaman's death while the guns thundered in the greatest naval fight of all times. They died performing their duty as the honour of their flag commanded.

Afterwards Herr Hitler laid a wreath on the Golden Book containing the names of German sailors who fell in the war. This was accompanied by a salute of 21 guns, fired from every ship of the High Seas Fleet.

Representatives of Bulgaria, Turkey and the former Austro-Hungarian Navy then laid their wreaths to the roll of drums. The marine guards of honour presented arms and the flags of the ships which took part in the world war were carried into the vault.

The Laboe Memorial, on the shore of the Kiel Bight, is a tower 280ft. high, curved in the shape of a ship's prow. In a Hall of Honour within are inscribed the names of the German warships sunk during the Great War.

In Berlin Jutland Day was celebrated by a company of marines marching through the Brandenburg Gate and down Unter den Linden to the strains of "I am a Prussian."

MAIL NEWS FROM HOME

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

With Lord Darling's death we have lost the last of the witty judges. "Judicial wit" in recent years has come to mean almost any aside or interpellation from the Bench.

Not all of Lord Darling's aphorisms were really witty—except by judicial standards. On occasions, however, he shone.

One such was in 1933, when he was hearing the action brought by Mr. J. H. Thomas against the "Communist." This paper had branded him as a traitor for not bringing out the railwaymen in support of the miners in the coal strike of 1921.

Mr. McManus, the late Communist leader, defended himself with ability. At one point he referred to the fact that the miners had had confidence in Mr. Thomas "until we were astonished by the portent of Black Friday."

A SAMPLE

Lord Darling immediately began writing and in a few seconds handed a note down to counsel. This read:

McManus and Croose in common agree. When casting their memories back.

That the portent that each was astonished to see.

Was equally Friday and Black. When I last heard Lord Darling speak the fire was all but extinguished. This was on the second reading of the Trial by Peers Bill a short time ago.

The diminutive figure—which made him so fine a rider to bounds and over the sticks—looked shrunken. He was ill and very old.

The voice that once delighted the House and the Bar was so faint that it was scarcely audible even to the Hansard reporters on the floor of the House.

HIGH STEWARD'S LAPSE

One of the high officials at the Coronation Proclamation at St. James's Palace yesterday lapsed from the strict observance of Court rules. Very few, however, even among the members of the Royal Household, noticed it.

The Marquess of Salisbury, attending as High Steward of Westminster, appeared wearing the broad blue ribbon of the Garter, having apparently overlooked the fact that the day was the anniversary of the Restoration.

As such it was a Collar Day on which, between the hours of sunrise and sunset, members of the Order of Chivalry are ordered to wear the Collar and Badge, instead of the Ribbon of their Order.

The last Collar Day was on Queen Mary's birthday. Gentlemen attending the Levee on that day were reminded by the Lord Chamberlain to wear their Collars. No reminders were sent out yesterday, as the Sovereign was not present in person.

"PERCYVENT"

"Norroy King of Arms." "Rouge Dragon." "Pursuivant"—the titles added mediaeval colour to the proclamation.

Among those near me, however, I found that the pronunciation of them varied. This is excusable since the authorities are not unanimous.

Dictionaries mostly recommend "Pursue-vent," with the emphasis on the first syllable. But the College of Arms calls it "Per-cy-vent," which (judging by the 16th century spellings, "Pursuivant" and "Pursuivant") was the old usage. Norry (North Roy, because his domain is north of the Trent) is pronounced Nor-roy.

The College of Arms's general principle is that heraldic terms like "vert" and "dragon" should be anglicised where possible. "Croix" and "rouge" are, however, pronounced roughly as in French.

NATIONALIST LIBERAL DUKE
Drawn by his Scottish Nationalist sympathies, the Duke of Montrose has been moving towards the Liberal party for some time. His first step on the road to Damascus was taken as long ago as 1930, when he addressed the Liberal Summer School at Dumfries.

The Duke's nationalism is severely practical. He has no sympathy with the "hotties" who wish to cut Scotland entirely adrift from England and create an independent State with its own army, navy, air force and Foreign Office.

He wants Scotland to manage her own domestic affairs. Presumably, too, he would want Scotland to have her own system of death duties, against which he is an ardent campaigner.

Eighty per cent. of the Montrose estates have been sold to meet death duties since he succeeded to the Dukedom in 1925.

INDUSTRIAL LYAUTEY

The Renault works at Billancourt, the scene of a stay-in strike, have associations with the very early days of motoring.

In the 'nineties two boys who lived in that Paris suburb began constructing a motor in a shed in their parents' garden. Their names were Louis and Marcel Renault.

By the beginning of the present century the Renault car had already made a reputation. It ranked with the Daimler and Mercedes in the days before the Rolls-Royce era.

Marcel Renault was killed driving one of his own models in the Paris-Bordeaux race of 1906. Since then M. Louis Renault has been the single head of the firm—now the largest of its kind in France.

M. Louis Renault, whom M. Andre Maurois has called "the industrial counterpart of the great Marshal Lyautey," is an occasional visitor to this country. He came here last to see the Chinese Art Exhibition.

EX-SERVICEMEN FRATER-NISING

During Gen. Weygand's visit to Chateaufort he will drive to Exton to-morrow for the British Legion Conference which will be in progress.

At the French ex-Servicemen's dinner on the following evening at the Cafe Royal, at which he will preside, he will again meet British ex-Servicemen.

Representatives of the British and American Legations and of Italian and Belgian ex-Servicemen have been invited to these dinners since their foundation by the chairman, M. Bardot, 10 years ago.

In addition to Gen. Voruz, the French Military Attaché, the Comte de Tour and Capt. Albertas, will be present. So also will the nephew of one of France's greatest soldiers—M. Pierre Lyautey.

The cabaret will be provided by Mme. Alice Delysia. There is also a possibility that Mr. George Robey, who was not unknown to Allied soldiers in France, will attend.

BRITAIN'S DAY OF PAGEANTRY

Plans Already In Hand For The Coronation

LONGER ROUTE OF PROCESSION

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

The Proclamation "Declaring His Majesty's Pleasure touching His Royal Coronation and the Solemnity Thereof," has appointed Wednesday, May 12, to be the day of State and honour. It has also focused the attention of the world on what will be one of the greatest occasions in the history of British opinion as well as of British pageantry.

When the Proclamation was read on Friday by "His Majesty's Officers of Arms," at Friary Court, St. James's, at Charing Cross, at the corner of Chancery-lane, and from the steps of the Royal Exchange, it was done with all due medieval pomp and colour. But it was medievalism with a difference. It was medievalism tempered by the microphone.

Though the capital must have the main event, the national character of the rejoicings will be everywhere manifest, and the local authorities will soon be at work considering how best to observe and to decorate the occasion.

LONDON'S HOSPITALITY

At the recent Jubilee the Office of Works gave a lead in the wise use of English flowers for civic display, and next May should see the window-box giving cleverly planned schemes of colour to cities in new terms of paint and dignity.

AMERICAN INTEREST

Next year's Coronation will be a Coronation with a democracy. Though only seventeen years ago democracy appeared to be the acknowledged goal of all mankind, it is now something of a rarity. The Coronation of a constitutional monarch will therefore make the greater appeal to the interest and admiration of all.

Furthermore, the hold which King Edward VIII. has exercised over the imagination and sympathy of millions outside his own empire, especially in America, will intensify the public eagerness to look, if possible, at the great scene; if not to read and to listen. Before constitutional monarchy arrived, no king would have dared to wait so long for the ceremony of crowning. No British king need worry now over another year's delay. Nor need he fear that the august Court of Claims, which was established by Royal Proclamation on Friday, touching services and solemnities due at a Coronation, will be at all embarrassed.

CROWNING OF OTHER DAYS

An English Tradition

By choosing May 12 as the date of his Coronation next year the King has paid the French people an exquisite compliment which will certainly be greatly appreciated. For it is the feast-day of St. Joan of Arc, their great and glorious national heroine. And this choice also satisfies the old English tradition, to the effect that Coronations are to take place only on "holy days," which is, indeed, specifically enjoined in the famous Coronation Service Book known as the Liber Regalis, and still preserved at Westminster.

TRANSPORT PLANS

The Ceremony of Coronation is, in historical fact, a somewhat private matter. The great officials that day are those of the King's Household. They escort him to his parish church. Now, at the heart of an Empire which is itself a constitutional democracy, nothing could be more public than these household performances. The King declares his duty to a people, and the people declare their loyalty to a king.

That microphone at the Proclamation was the symbol of the new order. The coronation in London next May will be of the millions as well as of the notables. The transport companies, on sea and by land, have now their date appointed, and they are already working out their plans to make the capital as easily approachable as its citizens hope to make it richly attractive.

The route of the procession, which the appointed authorities are now starting to consider, will certainly be longer than that used in 1911, which employed a direct approach from the Palace to the Abbey by way of Whitehall, returning by Piccadilly and Hyde Park Corner.

UNPARALLELED FESTIVAL

Since the number wishing to witness the spectacle will in all probability be far greater than ever before, the route may be extended so far as may be without causing undue strain to those in the procession.

If the country is favoured with anything like the weather which poured sunshine on the Jubilee last May, Great Britain should enjoy a festival unparalleled in the history of public holiday, dedication, and rejoicing. The Coronation will add a third day of leisure to the two public holidays of spring and early summer, and the common ability to revel without riot, which was so wonderfully demonstrated at the Jubilee, will have an even greater opportunity to show itself.

GERMAN POLICE CHANGE

Himmler Placed In Command

"Hong Kong Daily Press" Special, Berlin, June 17.

An important announcement change in the German police was effected on Monday when Hitler, following the proposals made by Minister of Interior Dr. Frick, issued a decree uniting the administration of all sections throughout the Reich in the hands of Himmler, leader of the S.S. (Black Coat Guards), and hitherto Commander of the Political Police of all German States with the exception of Prussia where he was Deputy Commander of the Secret State Police. Himmler's new title will be "Commander of the S.S. and Chief of the German Police in the Ministry of Interior." The new Police Chief will be in charge of all police matters within the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Interior and directly responsible to his Minister, whom he will represent for his department when the former is absent.

"The Chief of Police," so the decree continues, "will take part in Cabinet meetings in so far as his department is concerned."

The placing of all police matters in the hands of Himmler, it was stated by informed quarters, marks the conclusion of a long course of development which has now led to the creation of a uniform German Police Force.

AMBASSADOR FROM BRAZIL

Berlin Reception

"Hong Kong Daily Press" Special, Berlin, June 17.

The first Brazilian Ambassador to Berlin, Jose Joaquim de Lima e Silva, arrived in Berlin on Wednesday presented his credentials to Chancellor Hitler.

The reception of the diplomat which took place with the usual dignified ceremonial, and at which foreign Minister von Neurath was also present, was marked by extremely cordial speeches exchanged between the two countries, which was exemplified by the elevation of the Legation to the status of an Embassy.

The Chancellor in his reply expressed his gratification of the favourable development of the political, cultural and economic relations between Germany and Brazil and the considerable increase of trade between the two countries during the last few years. The Chancellor went on to declare that a great many Brazilian citizens of German descent are forming a valuable link between the two nations, and expressed the hope that the existing intimate relationship between Germany and Brazil may be further extended in future to the mutual interest of the two countries.

THREE MEN DEAD ON REEF

Trawler Mystery Solved?

Nassau, June 17.

A despatch from Nassau states that at sight of the British flag from a lonely coral reef off the Gemena Islands, a small trading craft investigated and found three white men—dead.

Close by were their suitcase, a Bible and nautical instruments. On the reef, lying badly damaged and hard ashore, was a small vessel which was assumed to be Girl Pat, out of Grimsby, whose master took her on a treasure hunt without the knowledge of the owners.

The trading vessel's crew buried the three bodies.

The Government has instructed the nearest Justice of the Peace to proceed to Nassau by sailing boat and investigate the wreckage.

Not until I. Edw. VI. Cap. 7, was it clearly enacted that a new reign began the moment the old one expired. Yet the maxim, "the King never dies," laid down by Finch, Dyer, Anderson, and many great jurists, was the received one all along.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S CHOICE

For Queen Victoria the day was changed from June 28—as being the anniversary of George IV.—to June 28, the Vigil of St. Peter, which gave much offence, that day being not a feast but a fast. Oddly enough June 28 was also the day upon which Oliver Cromwell was installed in St. Edward's Chair.

The most curious selection, however, was that made for her Coronation by Queen Elizabeth Sunday, January 15. It was a "lucky day" chosen for her by her astrologer and "medium," the famous Dr. Dee.

The Royal Proclamation announcing the date of the Coronation is promulgated as "in the first year of Our Reign." Obviously, one would say, but in early times the reign years of each monarch were counted from his Coronation.

ARAB MISSION IN LONDON

To Present Case To British People

London, June 17.

The Palestine Arab Mission, led by Jemal Effendi Hussein, President of the Palestine Arab Party, arrived in London to-day to present the Arab case to the British people.

The secretary of the party stated that the mission could not negotiate officially with the British Government with regard to the termination of the present situation, as the sole authority for such negotiations rests with the Arab Supreme Committee in Jerusalem. Meanwhile, despatches from Jerusalem indicate that tension has increased, this being the sixth anniversary of the execution of three Arab rioters, who were convicted on a charge of murder in the 1929 disturbances.

The latest outrages reported from various parts of the country include the ambush of a British police automobile patrol. The car was fired on by men in hiding near Jaffa.

The Police replied to the fire of the snipers and killed one and wounded another.

Bombs damaged the railway line near Gaza and the bridge of the Jerusalem-Jaffa line.

SOVIET-JAPANESE FISHING

Proposals For New Convention

Moscow, June 17.

The Japanese reply to the Soviet proposal, made on April 26, for the conclusion of a new Soviet-Japanese Fishing Convention was admitted to-day by the Japanese Charge d'Affaires here.

In submitting its proposal in April, the Soviet stated that, while making new concessions as proof of goodwill, it hoped the Japanese Government would take steps to complete the negotiations within the shortest possible time.

Meanwhile, a new Soviet push along the established north-eastern sea route is foreshadowed by the creation of a special administration to deal therewith.

YOUTH'S FEAT WITH GLIDER

"Hong Kong Daily Press" Special, Hamburg, June 17.

A model glider built by a 14-year-old school-boy established a new World Record for distance and duration at the competition on the Fischbeck Heath near here by covering a distance of 91.2 kilometers in 3 hrs. 14 min. After being catapulted into the air by its young owner, the model glider gracefully climbed up to an altitude of 1000 meters, where it disappeared in the clouds. A few hours later a report was received from Preetz in Holstein, which said that a miniature plane had safely landed in a meadow near that village.

A SECRETARY OF STATE FOR BURMA

LORD ZETLAND'S PROPHECY

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

The Marquis of Zetland, Secretary of State for India, spoke of the favourable prospects of Burma under the new Constitution after separation from India when he presided last night at the Burma Dinner in London.

"Although I realise the danger of prophecy," said Lord Zetland, "I would venture to lay a slight shade of odds that the chairman of your dinner in 12 months' time will be not the Secretary of State for India, but the Secretary of State for Burma."

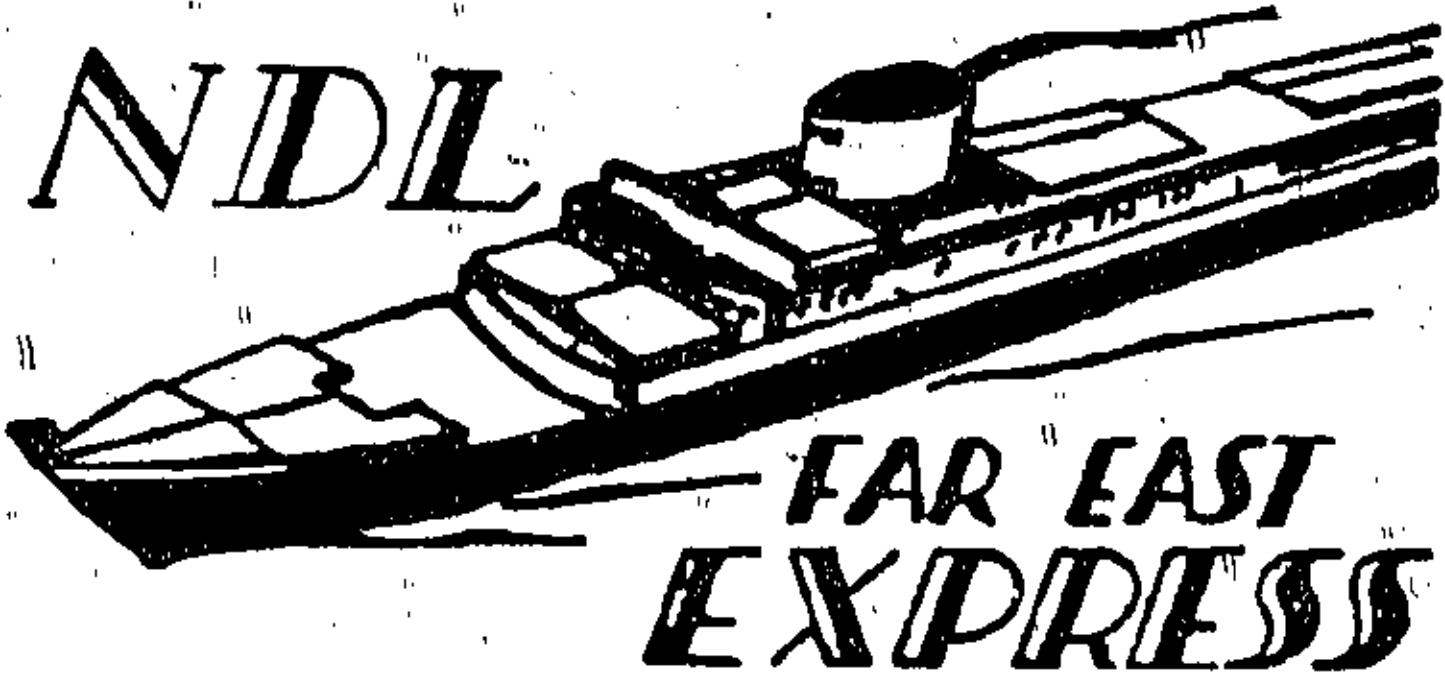

The Burmese, as a political people, he continued, had passed with great rapidity from political childhood to political adolescence, and it was perhaps unavoidable that in the rapidity of their growth they should experience, to some extent, teething troubles. From a material point of view, the prospect lying before Burma to-day was infinitely more favourable than he would have dared to hope that it would be, some two or three years ago.
